Explorer 3 May Be On Brief Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Explorer III, the world's newest satellite, dipped and soared today through the strangest orbit pattern man has yet established.

Unseen but overheard as its radio voice untiringly transmits information on its out-of-this-world environment, the new Army moon 12 times each 24 hours staggers up and up until it is about 1,700 miles out in space.

Far Reaching Journey

This is a more far-reaching journey than accomplished by any other satellite, among the five that have achieved orbits, except the Navy Vanguard sphere and tube which fly out to a distance of 2,500 miles.

Twelve times a day, also, Explorer III zooms earthward to entangle itself with the thin upper reaches of the earth's atmosphere, only 110 miles above the ground.

No other satellite is known to venture this close. Because of increasing atmospheric drag and the greater pull of gravity as the satellite approaches the earth, Explorer III is expected to have a relatively short life.

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency which fired the new Explorer, told reporters yesterday the orbiter probably would not live longer than two weeks.

In Washington, Dr. William Pickering of the Explorer project said that while the satellite's lifetime probably would be short, "it certainly will be days and probably weeks."

Asked if there was disappointment that Explorer III did not attain a higher, more nearly circular orbit that would have assured it of longer life, Medaris said that on the contrary the men in charge were very happy with the performance of the rocket and satellite.

Medaris said the odd orbit should prove to be of considerable benefit — "some substantial advantage"—to the overall space research program.

He pointed out that the satellite, while venturing far out into space, also would explore air densities at the lower altitudes where it would overlap a region that had been measured by high altitude sounding rockets such as the Aerobee.

Sees Vital Data

Thus for the first time science would have important measurements in the fringe areas that are difficult to study but are highly important both to manned and unmanned aircraft.

Wernher von Braun, deputy to Medaris, said one reason the new Explorer failed to attain a more successful orbit was that the second stage of the four-stage Jupiter-C rocket ignited a little too soon. The first of the three high speed rocket stages fire only after the Redstone first stage has hurled the satellite more than 200 miles into the sky. The second stage ignited a bit before the Redstone had completed its part of the climb.

This meant that the phase of acceleration to 18,000 m.p.h. orbital speed was touched off prematurely.

Jobless Pay Claims Up 46PC Locally in Year

The general increase in unemployment throughout the nation is also reflected in Kingston and Ulster County, an investigation by The Freeman discloses.

A total of 2,898 claims for unemployment insurance were on file at the Division of Employment, New York State Department of Labor, 18 Pine Grove Avenue, as of March 21.

925 More Claims

As of March 22, 1957, a year ago, the total number of claims was 1,973.

During the past year the number of claims for unemployment insurance has increased by 46 per cent.

Anthony C. Hart, manager of the local office, said that in some sections of the state unemployment in running 400 per cent higher than at this time last year.

Relief Rolls Climbing

Relief rolls of the Ulster County Department of Public Welfare have also been climbing, it is reported by Commissioner Edward Murray.

In January, 1957, for instance, there were 49 cases of home relief in the city of Kingston affecting 220 persons. In January of this year there were 63 cases affecting 317 persons. The cost in January, 1957, was $2,903 and in January, 1958, $5,155, Murray said.

In February, 1957, there were 49 cases on the home relief rolls of the city and in February of this year a total of 71 cases. The number of persons receiving relief assistance in February last year was 246, whereas in February of this year it had increased to 350.

Relief Costs Up

Cost of home relief in Kingston in February, 1957, amounted to $3,081 against $5,960 for the same month this year.

A "case" may include a family or a single individual.

Murray said the increase over last year is approximately 33 per cent in the city of Kingston and that the trend in the rest of the county is "somewhat similar."

He said that if the conditions now prevailing should continue it may require "some extra appropriations" to carry out the program this year. He pointed out, however, that this was only a "guess" on his part.

The general unemployment trend can be observed in recent lay-offs in a number of area plants.

Job Placements Down

For instance, Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen, has announced three lay-offs totaling 150 persons since the first of the year. The last lay-off in mid-February was 46 persons.

Total job placements in the area are also down, according to Vincent Vurchio, placement supervisor with the local Division of Employment. He explains that this is quite natural in a period of declining employment.

In February, 1957, there were 157 placements—81 female, 38 veterans and 36 other males.

In February, 1958, there were 112 placements—53 female, 29 veterans and 30 other males.

2,642 '57 Placements

Total placements during the calendar year 1957 were 2,642, he said.

Vurchio explained that January and February are slow months and that employment opportunities usually increase in March.

He pointed out that anybody who needs a job can register with the placement section. No fee is charged to either the applicant or the employer. During the summer the placement section handles a number of sum-

Consolidation Is Favored in Poll At KHS and MJM

A straw vote among resident students at Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael Junior High School yesterday favored the proposed Greater Kingston Area Consolidation by better than three to one.

Only students from the city of Kingston participated.

The totals were 1,087 in favor and 318 opposed.

This is a 77 per cent vote for consolidation.

KHS—740 for consolidation, 213 against.

MJM—347 for consolidation, 105 against.

The percentages were about the same in each school.

An informal referendum of the voters of the city of Kingston will be held next Wednesday, April 2.

The voters of the rural areas voted for consolidation several weeks ago—also by a three to one total.

Negligence Seen In Otsego Fund Shortage Probe

ONEONTA (AP)—A former commissioner and a deputy have been criticized by a grand jury investigating an alleged fund shortage in the Otsego County Welfare Department.

In a presentment returned yesterday, the grand jury said former Commissioner Everett M. Lane, whose term ended last Jan. 31, and Deputy Commissioner Hubert Wilmont had been "very lax and negligent in their supervision of public moneys and records" from 1952 through 1957.

A presentment is a statement made by a grand jury of an offense or unlawful state of affairs from their own knowledge or observation, without any bill of indictment laid before them.

The grand jury also returned sealed indictments but it was not

Man Has Much to Gain

Study of Space Has Advantages

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower held out to all the world's people today the promise that studies of outer space can provide benefits for them and for their children.

Within hours after the United States had put its third satellite into orbit yesterday, Eisenhower made public a document in layman's language prepared by his Science Advisory Committee—an "Introduction to Outer Space."

Major Benefits

Tangible benefits from better weather forecasting and communications were listed, along with future possibilities of military advantages and of research benefits which cannot be foreseen in detail.

The report emphasized scientific opportunities. It said there would be military advantages as well, especially in communications and reconnaissance. But it tended to discount talk of such things as satellite bombers and bases on the moon. It said these "appear to be clumsy and ineffective ways of doing a job."

Depends on Program

It offered as a rough estimate that a couple billion dollars, spent over a period of years, could make it possible to send a man to the moon and return him safely.

How soon this might occur, the report said, depends on how rapidly the program is pushed. Possibly not even in this century—or, on the other hand, within one or two decades.

But it said much more could be done by sending smaller space vehicles, with robot controls, to carry on explorations and radio data back.

Asks All to Read

Eisenhower made the report public and recommended that it be read by everyone. He called it "a sober, realistic presentation prepared by leading scientists."

The White House declined to say specifically who wrote it. It was signed by the 18 members of the Science Advisory Committee, headed by Dr. James R. Killian Jr., and made up of scientific or scientist-executives.

List Examples

Even before man himself moves into space, they said, his instrument-equipped satellites can help mankind. They listed as examples:

Satellites used as relay stations for radio and television can link all the corners of the world.

They can watch, from out in space, the whole intricate pattern of the earth's weather, spot gathering storms and hurricanes.

Stations for Scientists

Out beyond the distorting refraction of light in the earth's atmosphere, they can be stations from which science can see with clarity "new sights forever hidden from observers who are bound to the earth."

With ultra - precision atomic clocks mounted in satellites, scientists can test the prediction of Einstein that the measurement of time may be different in space.

They will show the intensity of cosmic radiation out beyond the filtering effect of the earth's atmosphere, out in space where man proposes to venture.

Chamber Is Firm About School Link

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce today renewed its affirmative stand on the school consolidation issue and urged all qualified voters to go to their respective school polling places on April 2 and express their preference on the issue.

Robert L. Sabin, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, made this announcement following a meeting of the executive committee late yesterday afternoon.

On March 11 the board of directors unanimously passed a resolution "strongly favoring the consolidation of our Kingston schools with the 25 area districts and urges all eligible voters in the City of Kingston to vote favorably on this question on April 2."

Why Not Schools?

"We expect our neighbors in nearby towns to work on voluntary committees and boards, give their time and effort and also support our churches and synagogues, hospitals, Community Chest, the Chamber of Commerce and many other agencies and organizations," Sabin said, and continued, 'Why not the schools?'

"Our Chamber of Commerce believes that most of our problems and programs can best be solved by area cooperative action. It means area planning to save money for taxpayers in the long run."

Rural Area Expands

It was pointed out that most recent industrial expansion, as well as residential construction, has taken place outside the city limits and that this trend is likely to continue for the obvious reason of available land, easy access by good highways and the trend to suburban living. "Therefore, it is very likely that assessed valuations for tax purposes within the next few years in the 25 outlying school districts will exceed the assessments within the city," Sabin said. He concluded, "This will mean that the outlying districts will soon pay a larger proportion of the school taxes than will the city."

Effect of Trends Same for Farmers And City Folks

ITHACA (AP)—A Cornell University professor urges stronger efforts to "unite the farm man with his brother in town."

"Levels of living and tastes of farm and city folks are rapidly becoming alike," J. Paul Leagans said Tuesday at the 47th annual Farm and Home Week.

Leagans said that farmers now get more than 60 per cent of their supplies from city factories, compared with only 25 per cent before World War II.

"Modern farming today includes more than 500 off-farm operations," he said. "These slow, but sure, trends will affect the business and programs of our farms and business leaders alike."

The coming of the missile and satellite age, Leagans said, "requires more cooperation between the two."

ONE OUT, OTHER NEW PREMIER—Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev (right) became the new Soviet Premier today, replacing Nikolai Bulganin, who resigned the post he had held since February 1955. Khrushchev, also first secretary of the party's central committee, is the third man in recent times to hold both top positions in the Soviet Union at the same time. Others were Stalin and Georgi Malenkov. (NEA Telephoto)

Khrushchev Takes Over As New Soviet Premier

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev today became Soviet Premier replacing Nikolai Bulganin.

His selection was announced to the Supreme Soviet, Russia's Parliament, by President Klementi Voroshilov, who had himself been re-elected a few minutes earlier.

Bulganin submitted his formal resignation as premier—a post he had held since February 1955—as the joint session of the Supreme Soviet began.

Named by Voroshilov

Then Voroshilov named Khrushchev as the new head of government.

Khrushchev is also first secretary of the party's central committee. He now becomes the third man in recent times to hold both top positions in the Soviet Union at the same time.

The others were Stalin and Georgi Malenkov, who held the twin posts for less than a month in 1953.

Bulganin at Session

Bulganin today appeared at the session of the Council of Nationalities of which he is a member. His face was grave although he smiled at the applause as he entered.

After Voroshilov's statement, which amounted to nomination, the parliamentary machinery went into action to make Khrushchev head of government. As such he will face President Eisenhower across the table if a summit conference is held.

Voroshilov began his statement by declaring that all Soviet people knew Khrushchev as an outstanding statesman in the Soviet government and the Communist Party.

Weapons Ban on Agenda

He gave the new Premier the assignment of naming members of his government and presenting them for the approval of the Supreme Soviet.

Also high on Parliament's agenda is the question of a ban on thermonuclear weapons. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will make a statement on this.

There was much speculation in Western circles that the Soviet Union might announce it is halting further hydrogen bomb tests in a dramatic bid to break the world disarmament deadlock.

Khrushchev put Bulganin in to replace Malenkov as premier in 1955. But the politician marshal reportedly backed Malenkov and others of an "anti-party group" before Khrushchev gained the upper hand and purged the group last July.

Russia has been conducting an extensive series of nuclear weapon tests in central Asia and in the Soviet Arctic within the past 10 days. U. S. officials have speculated that with completion of these tests Russia would renounce further tests, and possibly manufacture of nuclear weapons, thus putting pressure on the West to follow suit. The United States has scheduled nuclear tests for the Pacific from April to August.

Rotary Donates $500 Toward Tent For Ulster Fair

As part of its rural-urban relations program, which is designed to create good will between Kingston and farm communities in the county, the Kingston Rotary Club has donated $500 to the Ulster County Agricultural Society. The presentation took place Wednesday at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the local service club.

C. C. DuMond Jr., of Ulster Park, president of the Agricultural Society, sponsor of the Ulster County Fair, accepted the gift from Rotary President William E. Rylance.

Will Help Buy Tent

The money will be used toward the purchase of another large tent for use at the annual county fair. The fair now owns eight tents. The gift amounts to approximately half the cost of the new tent.

It was indicated that this is a truly cooperative project and DuMond expressed the appreciation of the Ulster County Fair board of directors. He said the new tent will make it possible to have a still better county fair on August 20 and 21 and in succeeding years.

Twofold Purpose

An agreement has been entered into which will permit Kingston Rotary Club to use the tent as "rain insurance" at the annual chicken barbecue held at the Beaty Farm. President Rylance pointed out that the use of the large tent, 42 feet wide and 111 feet long, would enable the Rotary Club to hold the chicken barbecue on schedule regardless of the weather.

He said "we are pleased to make this contribution of $500 to the Ulster County Agricultural Society as part of our rural-urban relations program."

$500 FROM ROTARY FOR FAIR TENT—C. Chester DuMond Jr., (center) president of Ulster County Agricultural Society, receives $500 check from William E. Bill Says No Charge To County

Tompkins to Stay On Kickback Job

The $150,000 appropriation to finance the Ulster County "kickback" probe by former State Senator Bernard Tompkins will come from moneys in the state treasury in the general fund and will not be a charge against Ulster County.

Both houses of the State Legislature yesterday gave approval for the appropriation and Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz's office said after passage of the appropriation bill that the Governor is expected to sign the bill.

On Monday former State Senator Bernard Tompkins of Queens was appointed by Republican Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz as special prosecutor to take over the state investigation into alleged "kickbacks" in Ulster County.

Follows Up Reuter

The appointment came after Governor Harriman had made a formal request for a special assistant attorney general to look into charges made by his acting state investigation commissioner, Arthur L. Reuter.

Reuter claims he has uncovered widespread kickbacks to public officials and influential politicians in 10 eastern counties, all heavily Republican.

Kickbacks His Job

Spacial Prosecutor Tompkins was named only for Ulster County to supercede District Attorney Howard C. St. John solely for the purpose of investigating the alleged "kickbacks." All other matters normally handled by the Ulster County district attorney's office will be continued by District Attorney St. John.

The bill for appropriation of $150,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary, makes an appropriation "to the department of law for investigations and prosecutions pursuant to a requirement made by the governor."

No Charge to County

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson from his office in Albany today stated that the $150,000 was a "state appropriation" and was not a charge against the County of Ulster.

Wilson, Republican county chairman, said he had "no further comment" to make at this time in regard to the appointment of Senator Topkmins as special prosecutor or in regard to the continuance of the investigation in the county.

Language of Bill

The appropriations bill states: "The sum of $150,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated from any moneys in the state treasury in the general fund to the credit of the state purposes fund not otherwise appropriated and made available for the use of the department of law for services and expenses, including travel outside the state, and allowances in lieu of subsistence at not to exceed $25 per day to the special assistant attorney general (in charge), for investigations and prosecutions, pursuant to the requirement made by the governor upon the at-

Ave and GOP Are Claiming State Gains

By HARVEY TRAVIS

ALBANY (AP) — Democratic Gov. Harriman and the Legislature's Republican majority leadership staked rival claims today to being the driving force behind gains at the 1958 session.

Both said the achievements would bolster party chances during this gubernatorial election year. Harriman is seeking re-election.

After adjournment of the 1958 Legislature last night, Harriman declared that the legislative "failures demonstrate the evils of control . . . by a small coterie of Republican leaders and the need for more Democratic legislators. . . ."

Say Record Good

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck said the 1958 session had expanded the GOP record of "pioneering sound measures" for the good of the people.

"This record stands in wholesome contrast with the governor's repeated obstructionism, partisanship and bad faith in his dealings with the majority leadership," they said.

Morhouse View

L. Judson Morhouse, GOP state chairman, declared that Harriman, "surrendering to political

Two New Paltz Juniors Receive School Honors

Bernice Paradies

Stephen Salkever

Two New Paltz Central School juniors have been nominated for scholastic honors. Miss Bernice G. Paradies has been nominated by the high school faculty to attend Empire Girl's State. Stephen G. Salkever was nominated for the Central Hudson Scholarship competition.

Empire Girl's State is a citizenship training program organized to help young people in leadership and citizenship responsibilities. This program is sponsored by the American Legion and is to be held in late June at the New Paltz State Teachers College.

Students chosen for this honor are evaluated for leadership, personality, scholarship, and general citizenship.

Miss Paradies has been one of the top academic students at the New Paltz Central School, showing particular interest and skill in the areas of mathematics, science, and music. During the past year she was elected to the National Honor Society. She plays violin in the school orchestra and is accompanist for the schools choral group. After high school Bernice plans to attend college to prepare for a career in teaching.

The Central Hudson Scholarship competition is open to one junior student from each of the high schools in the Central Hudson franchise area. Boys elected for this competition will attend a special training program for two weeks during the coming summer. An award for a four-year mechanical or electrical engineering scholarship at Rensselaer Polytechnical Institute will be made by Central Hudson.

Salkever is the son of Dr. Louis Salkever, who is on the faculty at the New Paltz State Teachers College. Mrs. Salkever is a high school teacher.

Salkever has shown interest and aptitude in mathematics and science in high school. He plays cello in the school orchestra, trombone in band, is a member of the school honor program, sings in the chorus, and is active in the school's science club.

Outside of school he plays in the New Paltz College Community Orchestra and in a local dance band.

After high school Salkever plans to attend a college such as Rensselaer Polytechnical Institute or Swarthmore.

Hidden Assets

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Phillip La Vallee's invalid wife died in 1953 but he's still finding what she left. A year ago he discovered $13,000 under the upholstery of her wheel chair. Recently he found $31,100 in cash in a newspaper-wrapped cigar box, stored inside a suitcase which in turn was inside a locked trunk. La Vallee said the money came in on investments and was turned over to his wife for re-investment.

EASTER FLOWER PREVIEW—Jesse Burt, superintendent of greenhouses for Valentin Burgevin, Inc., Pearl Street, previews some of Easter plants which will be displayed at the greenhouses Palm Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m. Camera enthusiasts, as in the past, are invited to photograph the thousands of Easter lilies, roses, carnations and other holiday plants and flowers which will be on display. Man, 45, Stabbed March 19, Dies Of Heart Attack

NIAGARA FALLS (AP)—Stabbing victim George Schwigler, 45, died of a heart attack in a hospital Monday, says the Niagara County coroner.

But another man, Desmond Crossett, 47, is charged with first-degree murder as a result of the death.

Authorities said Schwigler was stabbed March 19 as he was sitting in an automobile with Crossett's wife, Marjorie, 40.

Crossett was arrested on a charge of first-degree assault and freed in bail.

After Schwigler's death Monday Crossett was re-arrested and charged with murder.

Coroner F. Eugene Ingram yesterday signed a death certificate that a heart attack was the immediate cause of death. He did not say whether the death was due to natural causes or homicide.

District Atty. William H. Earl said last night he would by-pass a previously scheduled hearing in city court to take the case directly to the grand jury Monday.

Prefers Fine to Skunk

GLENS FALLS (AP)—Rather than put his automobile in his garage one night, Tom Coleman left it on the street and paid a $1 fine for all-night parking.

He said a skunk was using the garage.

Onteora Parents Club Hears Talk On Care of Child

"How to Prepare Your Child for School" was the topic discussed Tuesday evening at the Onteora Pre-School Parents Club.

Mrs. Epstein, a kindergarten teacher and Mrs. Osborne, school nurse, led a question and answer period.

Outlines Routine Day

Mrs. Epstein outlined a day of a kindergarten child and said the most important preparation of a child is to give him the proper attitude toward school and confidence in his teacher.

Mrs. Osborne told of the immunization program and of the required physical examination, vision and hearing tests. These can be done by your family physician or school doctor.

The dental and speech therapy programs were also discussed.

The next meeting will be May 24 from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. in the kindergarten rooms. This will be a meeting of both children and parents to familiarize the children with the school. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Regular Readers

A survey conducted by Eugene Gilbert & Co. found that most teen-agers consider themselves regular newspaper readers. Four out of five answered "yes" when they were asked if they read a newspaper yesterday.

BATTLING THE RECESSION

When an attack against the current recession may be mounted by the administration, no one can be sure. But it is not too early to consider whether such an offensive—if it comes—should be a limited or an all-out effort.

In weighing the two possibilities, it is assumed that in either case all conceivable steps will be taken to ease credit in various fields. Many such moves already have been made to stimulate a fresh flow of purchasing power.

An all-out assault presumably means both a substantial tax cut and a major public works program, the idea being that this combined release of buying power would give the economy an absolutely irresistible jolt upward.

In most planners' minds, the limited approach means a sizable tax reduction, plus the expected further easing of credit, but without whopping public works.

Those who right now see this recession in darkest colors think the full-scale attack is called for without delay. Labor economists and some men in Congress are ranged in this camp.

The "other side" includes some who are cautious in tinkering with the economy on a big scale, some who are just more optimistic about prospects for an early upturn, and some who see real danger in big spending and a consequent large federal deficit.

In the latter category are some economists who are afraid that a large public works program which, once launched, cannot without great waste be halted short of completion, could prove to be a serious inflationary factor in the years ahead.

In other words, suppose business heads upward in a few months. Public works undertaken would have to continue. If boom conditions soon developed again, the public activity on top of regular economic enterprise would put a strain on prices and wages and create shortages of men and materials.

Those who see big spending as a danger reason also that it means deficit borrowing on a scale that will saddle future generations with far heavier taxes to pay off the added debt. They think it tough enough that we must contemplate a tax cut that most likely will produce a considerable deficit even without huge public works.

In deciding between the two offensives, Americans and their representatives will be deciding just how far they are willing to go toward mortgaging their own and their descendants' future income to get out of an immediate hole. It would be quite a choice for sensible, fair-minded men to make.

The growing popularity of small cars is decried by a spokesman for the large manufacturers. He says that purchasers are lowering their standard of living. Perhaps he means that they are lowering the manufacturers' standard of living.

UNCONSCIOUS LITTERBUG

The word "litterbug," for all its rather light-hearted sound, has come to mean something nasty. It tells us of a man who is dirty, messy and anti-social, near kin to the boor who deposits blobs of chewing gum on the underside of restaurant tables. He is a man who strews garbage and trash on public rights-of-way; he leaves a green picnic grounds pockmarked with papers, cans and other debris.

No decent citizen could be a litterbug, deliberately scattering waste in public places. Yet the fact is that many a decent citizen is a sort of unconscious litterbug. Who has not, driving on a highway, tossed out an empty cigarette package or gum wrapper, perhaps a milk carton left over from the last visit to a drivein? Who has not, after a picnic, been a little careless about cleaning up the remnants—bits of eggshell, a crumpled napkin, a few bottle caps?

Public outrage against the litterbugs is justified. But every citizen must take care lest he himself be tarred, however lightly, with the same brush.

On March 14, 1913, Woodrow Wilson held the first presidential press conference. All of his successors have not honored him for this innovation with uniform gratitude.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE FEAR OF AGE

Lord Bertrand Russell, pragmatist, has written an amazing letter to Alfred Kohlberg, from which I quote the following:

". . . If it can be secured that only U. S. and U.S.S.R. have nuclear weapons, I favour negotiations between them for abolition of nuclear weapons by both sides. I do hold, however, that, if all negotiations prove futile and no alternatives remain except Communist domination or extinction of the human race, the former alternative is the lesser of two evils. . . ."

This is the most blunt statement of the pessimists I have yet seen. For them the battle for human freedom is finished; we must succumb to the conqueror or be destroyed.

This view permits the pogrom of Hungary, the torture of Poland, the betrayal of China to become acceptable. From this standpoint, it can logically be argued that what Hitler did was wrong because Hitler possessed no nuclear weapons, but that if Khrushchev does exactly what Hitler did, it is right because Khrushchev does posess nuclear weapons.

It may also be argued that unless the United States accepts Soviet dictatorship, there may be a nuclear war; therefore the United States should accept Russian dictatorship. In fact, if Lord Russell's logic be pursued, even halfway, Great Britain should at this moment invite Gromyko to formulate the British foreign policy.

The situation is not so hopeless or the Russians would not be so pressing for a summit conference. Obviously, we do not care whether such a conference takes place or not. Actually, the United States would prefer that it should not take place for some time. The question must be asked, why does Soviet Russia need such a conference? Of what use is it to Khrushchev to have such a conference now?

As one reads the various letters from Bulganin and the speeches by Khrushchev, it becomes obvious that the purpose cannot be to find a settlement for the outstanding problems which face the world; that the Russian emphasis is really only on the meeting itself. Perhaps, A. I. Mikoyan let the cat out of the bag when he said:

"At one time the Western powers put forward a proposal concerning the reduction of conventional armed forces. Those who made the proposals knew well that the Soviet Union was particularly ahead in this field, while the Western powers were ahead in air and sea power. However, we agreed to a serious cut in land forces and proposed a cut of 1.5 million soldiers from Soviet and U. S. armies. However, the Western powers immediately withdrew their proposals.

"This was followed by an American proposal concerning aerial observation of a number of regions. This proposal, however, remained in force only until we agreed to it. Later, the Americans lost all interest in it."

When did the Russians agree to aerial observation of all the places where nuclear weapons are produced? What they agreed to, a narrow field of obsevation, meant nothing at all. Then Mikoyan said:

". . . At one time the Americans insisted that the Russians were powerful, and able to massacre (them) individually. . . . Therefore, it was essential to unite, to create NATO, and to bolster the armament race. There were also times when the Americans insisted that we were militarily much weaker than they and that they were much stronger. So they decided to continue the armament race and to bolster it, otherwise the Russians might catch up with them."

Let us assume, the Russians despair of maintaining a lead in nuclear and rocket warfare and wish to return to conventional warfare. This can be accomplished by an international agreement outlawing nuclear warfare, outlawing tests and trials, experiments and stockpiling. If we assume that the Russians are sincere in this, we, 170,000,000 Americans, face 900,000,000 in the Soviet Universal State. Adding the NATO countries, say we run to 400,000,000, we are still far behind in manpower.

Such a war would be in the air, land and sea, and it is difficult to understand why Lord Rusell believes that death by TNT is preferable to death by a hydrogen bomb. We Americans may be too cock-sure that we can find a way to defend ourselves, but from the way the Russians are acting, it is to be presumed that they are not too sure either.

The weakness of pacifistic argument is that it gives no guarantee that as much will not be lost by being defenseless as by being ready.

Why Some Men Fear the Challenge of Retirement

By BEULAH STOWE

Some men fight the idea of retirement until the day they die.

Mr. S. R. M. was a lawyer in a middle-sized city. He died of a heart attack at 69. He had promised his wife he would retire at 70, but he didn't want to.

Possibly he was afraid he might miss the camaraderie of the old fifth floor of the building where his law offices were located. Possibly he thought he might miss his clients, his morning talk with the elevator boy and his diploma on the wall.

Mr. H. V. N. goes to his city office every day. His conversation is becoming vague and his eyesight is growing dim. He lives with a married son and he has never ceased to grieve for his wife, though she died 11 years ago.

He thinks he needs the backbone that a daily job inserts in his otherwise undirected existence. Mr. N. will work away his remaining years, because he has nothing else to do with them.

It is possible that both Mr. M. and Mr. N. missed a golden opportunity when they kept on the same harness and the same blinders past 65. If you, like these two men, can continue in your job if you choose to, ask yourself these questions:

1. Do I really need the money?
2. Do I find my present employment soul- satisfying, or merely time-filling?
3. What were those things I wanted to do when I was 35, 45 and 55? Can I still try them, if I retire and have time enough?
4. What have I done in my life to contribute to the world and its people? Could I do more by working here, or more if I retired?
5. Do I have the wisdom and balance to use retirement both happily and wisely?

Q—"Would buying a small motel in Florida be a good investment when I retire next year? We have about $60,000 to invest and would like to find a property which we could operate ourselves."—B. M. J.

A—Why risk your money? Some of the big hotel operators are getting into the motel business now, and the little family-run motels are being crowded out. You're about 10 years too late to find a gold mine in this field. Invest your money at a safe four per cent and let someone else worry about the balance sheets. The $2,400 a year you receive in interest will be a substantial addition to whatever pension and Social Security you will receive.

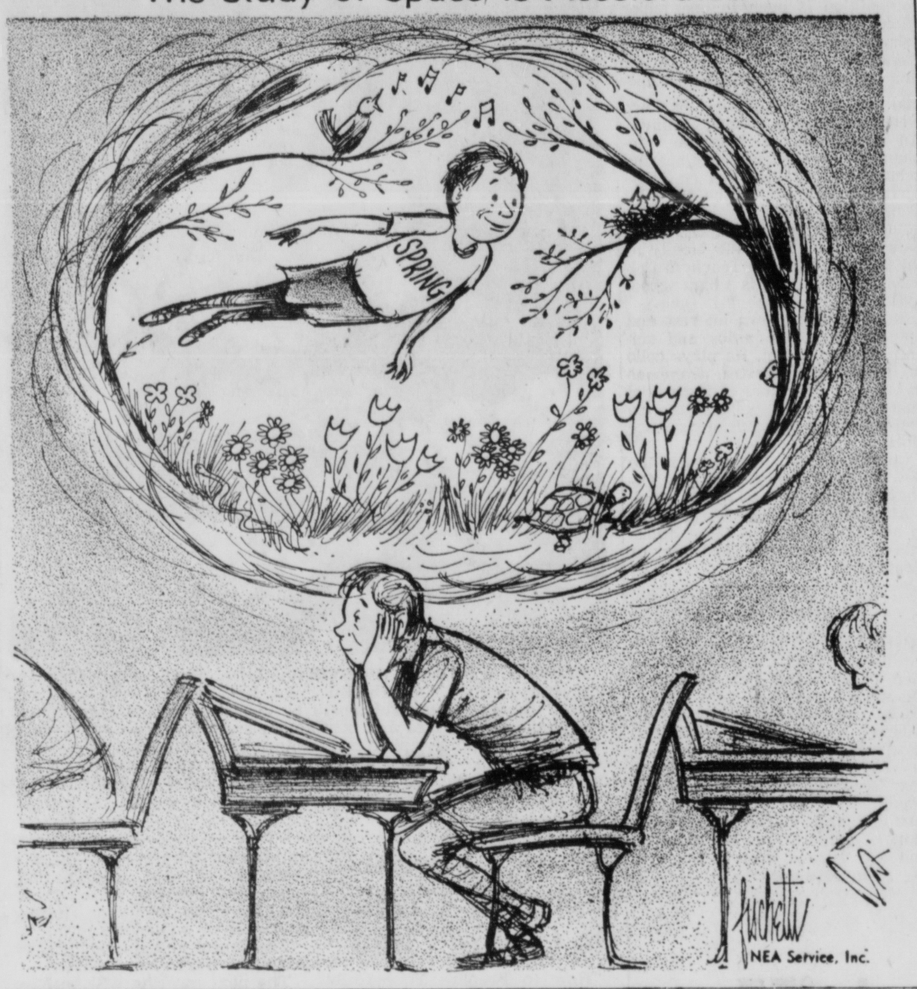
The Study of Space Is Accelerated



Washington News

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "The only thing wrong with President Eisenhower's second term program," as one cynic observed the other day, "is that the right messages were sent Congress in the wrong years."

A look at the record shows how well this point is made. In 1957 the President sent Congress messages filled with "New Republican" programs for expanding government activities all over the lot.

But the 1957 congressional mood was for economy.

If the 1958 messages had just been sent to Congress in 1957 and vice versa, things might be better today.

FOR A CASE can be made that if Congress had not been so economy-minded last year—if the purse strings had been loosened a little bit more instead of tightened to squeeze off an estimated five billion dollars in savings—the country might not be in its present fix.

To correct this situation, both the White House and Congress are having to propose spending programs that a year ago would have been regarded as sheer folly.

Unless a quick business recovery is just around the corner, the only question which Congress has to decide is how much next year's budget will be unbalanced or how big the deficit will be.

Accurate figures can't be determined until the last appropriation bill for next year is passed by Congress and signed by the President along about July.

THE BUDGET which the President sent to Congress in January estimated tax receipts of 74.4 billion dollars and expenditures of 73.9 billion. This would leave a surplus of half a billion.

Two months later, the figures are admittedly all wrong. If Congress cuts taxes, effective next July 1, government receipts may go down to around 70 billion dollars as a maximum. This figures assumes a business pickup by the end of the year. That would cause tax receipts to start an upward climb again.

Government expenditures for next year—as now indicated by congressional moves — would be about five billion dollars higher—say a total of 79 billion.

This would allow for an increase of defense expenditures of two billion dollars, a billion more for highways, one billion, 800 million more for housing and a modest 300 million more for public works.

With necessarily slow starts, that's about as much as could be spent in the first year of a big relief program.

This would mean a nine-billion-dollar budget deficit next year. Give or take a couple of billion either way.

THE OUTLOOK for the current fiscal year ending June 30 is not as bad as that, but still not good. The original budget estimate sent to Congress for this year estimated receipts at 72.4 billion dollars and expenditures at 72.8 billion, with a 400-million deficit.

Treasury officials still hope that tax collections for the remainder of this fiscal year will hold up fairly well. April collections will reflect last year's better business conditions. But March and June collections on calendar 1958 business may be off a little.

Expenditures for the first six months of 1958 are expected to shoot up by around 400 million dollars, however, as the first of the emergency relief measures begins to take hold. This would mean a deficit for this year of 800 million dollars—just double first estimates.

President's Delaying Action In Emergency Called Sound

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It takes courage for a President of the United States to resist the temptations of political expediency. Mr. Eisenhower could become a "hero" overnight to groups that want him to slash taxes, fix higher farm prices, or rush into the "summit" conference sought by the Soviet rulers.

But the President refuses to follow surface opinion. He prefers to take the sound course, which involves perhaps temporary political disadvantage but saves the country from financial or economic disaster later on when the full effect of short-range stimulants wears off.

The President has been urged by members of his own party—who come from districts where certain types of farm legislation are politically popular—to sign the bill that fixes dairy prices. But a veto is forthcoming, and it takes plenty of fortitude to withstand the pressure to sign the measure and help certain Republican Congressmen to get re-elected.

Calls Bottom Here or Close

Mr. Eisenhower doesn't just "follow the crowd" with respect to tax legislation either. He told his press conference today that "there are many factors that would imply that the bottom (of the recession) is certainly close, or possibly even now reached" and that his own feeling is that "we are going through the worst of it right now." While giving assurance that "we are going to do those things we think should be done" on a tax cut, he emphasized that this "is not something to be done lightly." He added that "we are not going into a tax cut or any other—what we believe to be unwise program—that can hurt us badly in the future."

This is a piece of sound statesmanship which is all the more admirable because so many politicians have become panicky and have begun demanding all sorts of tax cuts irrespective of the effect on the Federal Treasury. The President made it clear that he isn't ruling out a tax cut of some kind if the situation really requires it, but he left no doubt that his decision is going to be made on the basis of the economic facts and not by succumbing to political temptation.

Know by Mid-April

When will these facts become available? If, as the President says, right now is the period when the country is riding along the bottom of the slump there should be some further indication of how much of a stabilized trend has been achieved after the statistics ready in mid-April, show what actually happened during the month of March.

It as apparent that Mr. Eisenhower is somewhat concerned about the widespread talk of a repeal of the excise taxes. This is something which has been advocated as a means of boosting automobile sales, which have slowed down in recent weeks. But the President would not commit himself on this issue beyond saying that people should buy products on the basis of what they are worth and when they believe they are getting a bargain rather than worry about the possibility that later on the articles might be a little cheaper. Undoubtedly any reduction in auto prices would help sales somewhat, but it is questionable whether the relatively small amounts involved in the excise taxes alone would induce persons who feel they don't need or cannot afford a new automobile to buy one just because the price is a little lower.

Buyer Confidence Needed

What will stimulate automobile sales more than anything else is feeling of confidence among people who really need and want to buy a new auto but who have become uncertain about the future of their jobs in a recession period. A wave of optimism concerning this outlook, based on the belief that steady work at the some or higher income is in prospect, will do more to sell new cars than a revision of excise taxes that is made without some manifestation of general improvement in the economy.

To legislate a cut in income taxes generally would mean a large loss in revenue to the treasury, and this, on top of the expected deficit due to increase defense spending and other recovery measures, could scare the American people because of the fear that more inflation would bring a further depreciation in the purchasing power of the dollar.

President Eisenhower is fortunately not being stampeded by considerations of political expediency so as to win a Congressional election. He is giving an example of sensible leadership in a crisis. He is concerned with the maintenance of a sound economy and hopes there will be enough voters who will be able to differentiate between constructive measures and artificial stimulants that give temporary satisfaction but leave a hangover of ill effects.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel output is at its lowest for any non-strike period since April 1952. But steelmen's confidence today is buoyed by many new things.

One is the needs of today's hordes of children in the 1960's. Another is the new uses and new steel products developed or within sight — with scientific advances constantly demanding new alloys. And still another is slump-born new vigor in the battle with other materials—masonry, wood, plastics and other metals—for present markets.

Competition Not Easy

On the side there's some family feuding, as new alloys or processes take over fields once held by older steel products.

The competition isn't easy. Other materials seek new markets, too.

But steel research is turning up new fields as old ones decline. Battleships may be passe and tanks less in demand, but steel has found new markets as curtain walls for buildings and in nuclear power plants, in missiles and in launching installations.

Demands from fabricators and end users of steel have brought a host of new steel alloys into use. Examples cited by Republic Steel's commercial research division: Precipitation hardness grades of stainless for the aircraft industry, and the recently developed aluminum coated steel sheets.

Research Blossoms

Steel research itself has blossomed since the war and is coming up with new steel products on its own. U. S. Steel reports that 900 employes at its research center, Monroeville, Pa., are working on 1,002 projects, such as studies of boron steels to increase effectiveness in high carbon steels and improved alloys for high temperature service. It has developed a sandwich rolling process that makes sheets only 0.033 of an inch thick, for the aircraft and missile industries.

Republic Steel reports its new research center has great hopes for a new process for direct reduction of iron ore. It stresses also long terne sheets, lead and tin plated, used in fuel tanks and air filters on cars and trucks; plastic coated steel pipe; asbestos asphalt coated culverts.

Expects Great Things

Sharon Steel expects great things from its stainless carbon or coated strip with a third dimension surface which can simulate fabrics, leathers, wood grains as well as pebbled surfaces and geometric patterns.

Its Sharonart products are designed for use as interior and exterior wall panels, trim and moulding on cars and planes, conveyor belts, furniture and lamp bases, for handbag frames and costume jewelry.

Jones & Laughlin has a new line of high strength tubular products for the deeper wells the oil industry now drills.

Office furniture is the scene of a like battle. First the traditional wooden office desk met competition from steel furniture and then staged a comeback with new styling and extras. Now steel is slugging back with a variety of colors, rounded corners, easier rolling drawers, sound deadened interiors.

Henry Sacks Awarded Science Scholarship

Henry Sacks, a member of the senior class of Saugerties Central School, is the 1958 winner of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award Medal for achieving the highest scholastic record in science subjects during his high school career, it has been announced by Dr. Grant D. Morse, Superintendent of Schools.

Only winners of this award, presented annually in more than 6,200 secondary schools throughout the country, are eligible to compete for the science scholarships sponsored by the Bausch & Lomb Optical Co. at the University of Rochester.

The internationally-famous Rochester optical firm provides for three or more scholarships annually, with flexible stipends based on financial need, and with a total combined value of $9,000.

The Science Award Medal is presented upon graduation. However, the winner must be selected at an early date because applications for the scholarships must be filed with the university on or before March 1. The selection of the winner is based upon scholastic achievement in science, with incidental consideration of general academic standing, qualities of leadership, and extra-curricular activities.

Both the Bausch & Lomb Science Award and science scholarship programs have been officially approved by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, and educators throughout the county. These awards are recognized as significant evidence of scientific aptitude, and have encouraged countless young people to the consideration of careers in science.

All Papers Accepted

All 34 Regents examination papers submitted by Saugerties Central High School to the State Education Department following the mid-year examinations, have been accepted, it was announced today by Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of schools.

WILL NOT BE PANICKED INTO A TAX CUT—President Eisenhower tells newsmen in Washington that there are indications the nation is reaching the bottom of the recession. He said he feels the country is going through the worst of the slump right now. The Chief Executive also repeated once again that he will not be panicked into a tax cut. (NEA Telephoto)

Next Directory For Kingston to Include Hurley

The Price & Lee Co., of New Haven, Conn., publisher of Kingston's directory, will include the Hurley area in its next issue, E. T. Carr, of New Haven, a company representative, now in this area, revealed yesterday.

An estimated 1,900 listings are expected to be added to the directory. This should boost the book considerably beyond the 782 pages required for the 1957 issue.

Announcement of the added listings led to inquiries as to why the Town of Ulster should not also be included. Carr said it was found that it was determined that since Ulster Township virtually surrounds Kingston the cost would be prohibitive.

Reports last year, after completion of a special census for state aid purposes in the area, showed a population of 7,189 in the Town of Ulster. The total for the Township of Hurley was 3,414.

The increase for the Town of Ulster over the 1950 census was listed as 2,778, and that in the Town of Hurley was 1,434.

Kingston's population, at 28,817 in 1950, went to 30,470, a gain of 1,653.

Negligence Cases Continued Here In Supreme Court

Continued today in Supreme Court before Justice Kenneth S. MacAffer and jury were two negligence actions arising out of a collision at the western approach to the Mid-Hudson Bridge on December 5, 1955.

A tractor-trailer, operated by Claude Foltz, and a passenger car operated by William August Lawlor of Marlborough, collided and Miss Virginia Sabella of Marlboro received severe injuries.

Michael Nardone appears for Miss Sabella, McCabe and McCabe for Lawlor and A. J. Cook Jr., for Foltz.

Lawlor contends the tractor-trailer was on his side of the road on the curve at the bridge approach while Foltz contends the Lawlor car skidded into his tractor. It was foggy at the time. Lawlor and Miss Sabella were en route from Poughkeepsie to Marlborough at the time. Miss Sabella was very severely injured and contends she has suffered permanent injuries to her back.

Among the cases announced settled are:

Herbert Gollup against Benito Marchetti, automobile negligence. Aaron E. Klein for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

William Zang against John J. Sotomayor and others, foreclosure of mechanic's lien. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman for plaintiff and Joseph Avis for defendant.

Joseph H. Elefant against William H. Langfield, automobile negligence. Timmerman and Carlson for plaintiff and Carter and Conboy for defendant.

Theresa K. Atkins against John E. Weed and another, automobile negligence. Aaron E. Klein for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

Grant Decker against Maurice Goldberg and another, work, labor and services. Timmerman and Carlson for plaintiff and Goldberg and Kelter for defendant.

Adolf Heckeroth against Maurice Goldberg and another, work, labor and services. Timmerman and Carlson for plaintiff and Goldberg and Kelter for defendant.

Natural Death Ruled Out for Soldier Agent

CAMP ZAMA, Japan (AP) — The U. S. Army said today that laboratory tests give no hint of what killed an Army intelligence agent found floating in Tokyo Bay but that he did not die a natural death.

The Army's statement said the exact cause of the death of M. Sgt. Emmett E. Dugan of Crafton, Pa., "may never be known." Dugan's body had been in the water so long, the Army said, that chemical tests were neither reliable nor conclusive.

Drowning was ruled out because Dugan's lungs were not filled with water. There was no trace of any poisonous chemicals in his body, the statement said, and no evidence of any injuries that could have killed him.

Before Dugan disappeared from his intelligence unit here Feb. 4, he handed his insurance policies to his wife, Maud, and told her, "if I don't return, you'll need these."

The 39-year-old agent's body was found in Tokyo Bay March 12. The Army said he did investigating work, and Japanese sources said he had been assigned to collect information on Communist China. It was his first intelligence assignment.

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Parent Must Understand Obedience Before Child Can

Braking the stroller in front of her supermarket, Eddie's mother said, "Watch the baby until I get back."

Instead, Eddie followed her into the store. When she turned to repeat her order, he darted away and began rushing up and down the canned-food aisle. Catching him, she slapped him, crying out to a curious fellow shopper, "He won't do a thing he's told. If ever there was a kid with a will of his own, it's him."

Thus, while performing action that protested Eddie's disobedience, his mother spoke words that accepted it as inevitable.

This is why he is disobedient.

Secretly, Eddie's mother admires disobedience. She wishes she could flout the demands made on her by housework, the landlord, her creditors.

Though she makes gestures that seem to want to restrain Eddie's defiance, her own secret rebelliousness corrupts her ability to take a firm, decisive position toward it.

He senses her double-mindedness, knowing that her "He won't do a thing I say" really means, "I'm not sure I want him to do a thing I say."

This is understandable.

Our country was founded by a Declaration of Independence that pronounced us all "equal." So we Americans are uncomfortable when we realize that some of us are smarter than others. We feel there's something humiliating about taking orders.

When we are required to do so, our immediate response is, "Who do you think you are to tell me what to do?" As the "equals" of people in authority, we are angered by the obligation to obey them.

Though we are indeed all equal before God, we are unequal in human development. Eddie's five-year-old competence cannot possibly equal his mother's. Our national prejudice against tyranny makes it very hard for us to see this, and is why we rear so many unhappy, confused, disobedient children.

So let me remind you that the moment our forefathers rejected obedience to British authority, they had to start rendering it to their own Constitution. We all have to render obedience to someone — and the idea that Americans are absolved from this social necessity is a childish one we need desperately to get over.

TURKEY DINNER

CHICKEN A LA KING

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Received some interesting items from Port Ewen recently —One set of photographs of the Half-Moon as made by Bernard and Anne Schulze, a husband and wife team who are professional model makers of sailing vessels. Their studio is in Ross Court, overlooking the Hudson River, where they make and repair historic models of sailing vessels and other boats and antiques in any material for such museums as Roosevelt Memorial at Hyde Park, Museum of West Point, also at Newburgh and many museums across the country who know of their talents.

Their work is very exacting and they often have to do much research before they touch the model. They use very delicate tools and very intricate, many of their own inventions such as spinning their own fine rope for the models. Their Half-Moon is scale 1 inch to 1 foot, length over all 36 inches. It was finished this past year. They both work on a model but I notice that Anne prefers to do the rigging which she does quickly with great dexterity. She also makes and paints the sails and flags on the ships. That is no ordinary job either. Emblems, colors, etc., have to be historically accurate. She also carves what is necessary in various woods, metals and even ivory when parts are missing on the models. She uses such items also as tweezers, needle threaders, crochet needles etc., when necessary.

Mr. Schulze, as a rule builds the hull and deck work in which line he is a specialist. In Europe, Anne worked in his studio and that is how they met, and she learned her trade but his word is always final as to how the work should be done. Before they begin work on a model like the "Half-Moon" they look up pictures and descriptions in various books, and in different languages so that they can compare every source the historians and model makers found before they start. They will argue back and forth about little items which otherwise would not be noticed by an average lover of model ships. "It is most important, we cannot make an error," they say.

Whenever they bring an interesting ship model from a museum to repair and let me know I try my utmost to see it several times so I can see it under construction. I have seen Anne strip an old sailing vessel model down of all its rigging and sails and then rig it up again with new fine rope she makes herself. She washes the sails and puts them back on again. They do not keep secrets of their craftwork and will answer all questions to the best of their ability as to how it is accomplished. They are a remarkable team and when I intend to stay just five minutes it usually winds up to several hours because of the historical items in their home and their interesting discussions. My father used to make models in his spare time, but strictly for his own pleasure. He never considered himself in the professional class, although his "Chain-Ferry" is now in our Senate House Museum.

FREEMAN ADS MEAN GOOD BUSINESS

ncing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Make Me Laugh" (ABC-TV), Thursdays, (10 p. m.) has not made me laugh yet, but I suppose it could if it would throw in one contestant as stony-faced about it as I was during its debut last week.

The gambit in this one is to confront a studio contestant with three so-called comedians, each of whom has 60 seconds in which to make the victim laugh. For every second he doesn't laugh he gets one buck.

But All Laughed

On last week's program, with Robert Q. Lewis as master of ceremonies and comedians Sid Gould, Buddy Lester and Henny Youngman in the pitcher's box, it appeared to be the easiest way to earn $180 yet conceived by television.

But everybody laughed—everybody except maybe a few thousand sour-pusses like me.

Perhaps it would have been easier to make me laugh if I hadn't felt it necessary to interrupt watching a beguiling "Playhouse 90" (CBS-TV) program in its middle half-hour portion.

Although I missed its second act, "The Right Hand Man" impressed me as an altogether absorbing and realistic drama of the agency business — East Coast branch, at any rate, even though the drama's focus was on the West Coast home office of which I personally know nothing.

It was, I believe, Anne Baxter's dramatic debut on television. She is very good. So were Dan Andrews and Leslie Nielsen in this play written by Garson Kanin. It made one fellow want to modify some of the things he'd said about "Playhouse 90" this season.

Two Cities' Tonight

No "Playhouse 90" tonight. Instead, Show of the Month" presents "A Tale of Two Cities" (CBS-TV, 9:30 p. m.).

In order to talk with its 45,000 alumni around the world, Harvard College will present a network radio program Friday evening.

"The Case for the College," a program involving Harvard alumni, undergraduates, faculty and administrators, will be heard on more than 150 stations of CBS radio from 9 to 10 p. m.

This marks the first time an American college has bought an hour of radio network time in order to describe its functions.

Laurence O. Pratt, the spokesman for the Harvard program, said the other day that "we wanted real commercial time . . . no, television is too rich for our blood. We felt that if we put on a top-grade radio program in prime commercial time, we'd let our own people—and many others — know what we're doing."

Although I'm not among the alumni, I plan to listen to this program. Besides the many interesting alumni participating, there will be some absorbing tape-recorded remarks by students on undergraduate life. President Nathan M. Pusey will deliver the "commercials."

Tips on Making Up Easter Baskets

Children love to receive Easter baskets. Simple planning can make this cherished tradition lots more fun without being expensive. Here are a few helpful suggestions.

You can make a basket from any small cardboard box. Cover the outside with crepe paper ruffled at the top. The basket handle can be made with a strip of thin cardboard also covered with crepe paper. Let the children help you. The whole family can have fun together making baskets for the Easter Bunny to fill.

Later, when the baskets are being filled, remember to include a few packages of the child's favorite chewing gum along with the candy and colored eggs. Chewing gum is a wholesome treat that won't spoil the youngsters' appetites.

Put a surprise present in Easter baskets also. Youngsters will appreciate receiving a basket more if a special gift such as a little game or book is added. Remember that thoughtfulness is more important than money spent, so get something suitable for each individual child.

A recent study, conducted by Dr. George Gallup of the American Institute of Public Opinion, found that newspaper advertising is regarded as news by most readers.

Elimination Play Saves Contract

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Suppose you are today's declarer and West cashes the ace and king of spades and shifts to the deuce of diamonds. How would you go about playing the hand? It is what is usually described as a cinch by a man who has just watched his partner go down and it really is not too difficult if you are a top player.

Your problem is to hold yourself to one club loser and obviously a squeeze won't work and since you have looked and noted the king and jack of clubs in the West hand you have to find an elimination play of sorts.

It is there all right the way the cards lie. You simply lead a low heart to dummy's eight and ruff the dummy's last spade. Now you play a diamond to dummy's ace and ruff a third diamond. The next play is a trump to dummy's king and now you play the club suit. If East plays low you play the nine and if he plays the ten you cover with the queen.

In either instance West will be on lead with nothing but black cards in his hand. If he plays a spade you will ruff with dummy's jack of trumps and discard your losing club. If he leads a club you have no losing club left.

This is a rather unusual elimination play in that South could not pull all the trumps or get rid of all the diamonds but it worked because all West's red cards had been eliminated.

Youngster With a Heart

STUTTGART, Ark. Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Beauty Marble Candy has gone away.

Ralph Beauty Marble Candy is never coming back.

In a woman's world, Ralph Beauty Candy made the greatest possible masculine mistake. He mauled a young lady, the big bully. So he has been exiled from civilization.

Back to Suburbia

He has been sent back to the suburbs, where he was born, where his crude frontier ways are more in style.

Ralph Beauty Marble Candy, who lasted less than two weeks in the big city, came here as the answer to a maiden's prayer. The maiden was our daughter, Tracy, nearly five, who has been dictating notes of protest to Santa Claus ever since Christmas because he didn't bring her a kitten.

This was like telling a child not to stick beans up its nose. Tracy couldn't stay away from Ralph Beauty, and he couldn't get away from her. She was too young; he was too old. He scratched her less each day, but he did still scratch some. Tracy loyally tried to hide the scratches, shield him from blame.

Spent Nights Out

But it became clear soon that Ralph Beauty Marble Candy would have to leave. He was used to spending his nights out. Where he live cats (and husbands) are expected to spend their evenings contentedly by the warm glowing television set.

But there came a day when Frances announced firmly:

"I'm not going to let him turn Tracy into a human scratching post. Besides all he does is eat, eat, eat."

That Carrying Case

Back into his carrying case went Ralph Beauty Marble Candy—out into the suburbs to join another family of gamblers.

"Goodby, honey-honey," whispered Tracy, giving him a final squeeze. She didn't cry at all. She had been bribed with the promise of a real kitten to replace him.

April Inspection Month For 1942-1946 Models

Owners of motor vehicles of model years 1942 through 1946 must have them inspected in April, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Joseph P. Kelly said today.

The inspection, covering brakes, lights, steering and wheel alignment, may be obtained at any state-licensed inspection station.

If the vehicle doesn't pass inspection, it must be repaired and the inspection sticker obtained within ten days or registration plates will be suspended. There are also criminal penalties for operating a vehicle without a valid sticker, if one is required. The inspection law applies to vehicles more than four years old.

Women Pickets Arrested After Defying Police

ONEONTA (AP) — Eight women pickets were arrested at a dress plant today after they defied policemen trying to stop them from blocking a truck, police reported.

Workers at a second plant, the Erie Valley Manufacturing Co., returned to work following settlement of a three-week-old strike.

The pickets were taken into custody at the plant of the Oneonta Plains Manufacturing Co., after, police said, they halted a truck that plant Manager Sal Coletti was trying to drive in.

Police said they asked the women to move aside and the women refused. They were charged with failing to obey a reasonable request. They are to appear in city court tomorrow.

The settlement at the Erie Valley plant was announced yesterday by Manager Jack Felix and Alex Karesky, Upstate New York-Vermont director of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Karesky said the settlement calls for an 8 per cent increase in hourly wages and a decrease from 40 to 35 hours in the work week. This means total wages will stay about the same as before the strike, he said.

In addition, Karesky said, the new contract calls for 6½ paid holidays a year instead of 5, creation of a severance-pay fund and improvements in health and welfare benefits.

The wages, which vary because of piecework arrangements, range from about $40 to about $60 a week.

FCC Sees Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Commission today notified radio station WBNY-FM, Buffalo, N. Y., that a public hearing may be necessary for its application for license renewal.

The commission said the station appears to be in technical violation of commission regulations in its background-music operations.

Orders Hearing Against Menands Pool for Bias

NEW YORK (AP)—A state official today ordered a public hearing on charges of discrimination brought by a Negro girl against the Mid-City swimming pool at Menands, near Albany.

The hearing, scheduled for April 21 in Albany, was ordered by Commissioner J. Edward Conway of the State Commission Against Discrimination. He said his efforts to settle the charges by conciliation and persuasion failed.

Conway Sets Time

The hearing is the second since the commission was organized in 1945 involving charges of discrimination in public accommodations. It is the first in the history of the commission involving charges against an Upstate organization.

The swimming pool management has 10 days in which to answer the complaint.

The charges were brought by Barbara Ann Sharpe of Albany. She claims that on last June 26 and 27 she was unable to enter the pool because of her color.

A spokesman for Mid-City said in Albany there was no discriminatory policy at the pool. He said that Negro groups had been invited to use the facilities and that white and Negro persons had swum together.

Individual Act

If Miss Sharpe was barred, the spokesman said, it was done by an individual employe acting on his own. The company has not been able to find the employe, the spokesman said, because most of them are hired on a temporary basis.

A commission spokesman said that if the hearing upholds the charges, SCAD will direct the pool to end discrimination against Miss Sharpe and all other Negroes. If there was no compliance with a SCAD order, a cease and desist order would be sought in the State Supreme Court, the spokesman said. Penalty for disobedience of a court order is punishable as contempt of court.

Will Cut Price

NEW YORK (AP)—Aluminum Ltd. will cut its price of aluminum ingot about two cents per pound, effective Tuesday.

The company said the reduction is the first significant change in the upward price movement in aluminum which began about 10 years ago.

The current price of aluminum pig in the U. S. is 26 cents per pound.

Aluminum said its reductions will range up to $42.00 per ton, approximately two cents per pound. It said specific prices in different markets served by the company will be announced on or before Tuesday.

Bids for Highway Materials to Be Asked by City

Bids for city purchase of crushed stone, hot and cold mixes of asphaltic concrete, bituminous materials, and various sizes of screening, will be called for as a result of action yesterday by the Board of Public Works.

The board emphasized that all bids must conform to standards set by the New York State Department of Public Works.

A proposal that two-phase traffic lights now operating in the city be changed to three-phase lights was referred to the Common Council's traffic committee and to Deputy Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, who is in charge of traffic for the police department.

The suggestion was made in a Common Council resolution sponsored by Alderman C. W. Myers, Second Ward, and William A. Davis, 11th Ward.

As the result of complaints from residents of Lisa Lane concerning muddy conditions on that street, the BPW suggested that the planning board consider the Lisa Lane problem, and similar conditions on other streets in the city.

Several requests for street lights were referred to the light committee. New lights are sought for Tammany Street, Kingston Terrace, Lisa Lane, Valentine Avenue, and one was sought for an area near 77 West Pierpont Street.

Change of a light was asked for an area at Post and Spring Streets and fixture changes were asked for an area at Clinton Avenue and Cedar Street, and at a point on Emerick Street.

Railroads Look To Harriman for Some Tax Relief

ALBANY (AP)—New York's railroads today looked to Gov. Harriman for final action on legislation designed to give the lines some of the tax relief they have long sought.

The Legislature, in its closing hours last night, approved a bill that would set at current levels local taxes on railroad real estate.

A second measure would allow local districts to exempt railroad property from taxation.

The measures were among scores of bills enacted in yesterday's long drive toward adjournment.

Other Bills

Passed and sent to the governor were measures to:

Raise from 26 to 39 weeks the time in which idle workers could draw unemployment benefits.

Put a second, 100-million-dollar bond issue for housing on the November ballot for voter action.

Amend the constitution to confer home-rule powers on first class towns.

Alter the constitution to let the Northway, from Albany to Canada, go through the Adirondack Forest Preserve.

Authorize use of a 1958 tab on current motor vehicle registration plates instead of issuing new plates.

Amend the constitution to eliminate primary elections where there were no contests.

Blocks Rail Hike

Block, at least temporarily, a proposed 5.9 per cent fare increase the Long Island Rail Road plans to impose April 8.

Set new regulations on installment buying, including a requirement that specified details must be included in contracts covering the purchases.

Allocate $150,000 to the attorney general's department for use in an investigation Harriman has ordered into the affairs of Ulster County.

Allocate $30,000 to the State Commission Against Discrimination to enfore a new law on employment discrimination against persons between 45 and 65.

Amend the public authorities law to require that uniform tolls be charged by the New York Bridge Authority on present bridges, thus paving the way for higher tolls on any new bridges.

Allows Off-duty Work

Allow state employes earning less than $6,000 annually to work at harness race tracks in their off-duty hours.

The Assembly, which earlier killed the Senate-approved version of the Tweed Commission plan for court reform, yesterday killed the commission by denying a request for its continuation.

Other legislation that died in the closing hours included bills to:

Increase by 25 the number of Supreme Court justices in the state.

Allow employers to fire workers who had pleaded the Fifth Amendment when questioned during an investigation into subversion.

A. N. Cotton Dies

WHITE PLAINS (AP)—Arthur N. Cotton, 85, a retired national official of the Young Men's Christian Assn. and the Boy Scouts of America, died today in a nursing home.

Cotton also was one of the nation's first basketball players, having played on a Springfield, Mass., college team coached by Dr. James M. Naismith, originator of the game.

Cotton was a Y.M.C.A. executive for 42 years prior to his retirement in 1933.

He was a member of the national council of the Boy Scouts of America and was credited with helping to found scouting in Buffalo, N. Y.

torney general under date of March 22, 1958, and any amendments, supplements or additions thereto.

"Such money shall be paid out of the state treasury on the certificate of the attorney general, or of any officer or employe of the department of law, designated by him, and after audit by and upon warrant of the comptroller. This act shall take effect April 1, 1958, provided, however, that the appropriation made herein also shall be available for liabilities incurred after the date of the governor's requirement and prior to April 1, 1958."

To Arrive Monday

Special Prosecutor Tompkins is scheduled to arrive in Kingston Monday and set up offices.

The probe was touched off last summer following discovery of "irregularities" in the Kingston Police Department. A grand jury investigation was begun which resulted in several indictments and convictions.

Later the governor was petitioned to cause an investigation into both city and county affairs and last October Acting State Investigation Commissioner Arthur L. Reuter and a staff began a "preliminary" investigation to determine whether a "full scale" investigation should be made. That request was granted by the governor.

Reuter Continues

The Reuter investigation is still going on. Reuter alleges that his investigation has disclosed widespread "kickbacks" to town road superintendents and others, including influential politicians, and that some 10 eastern counties are involved.

The 1958 Legislature declined to make available a large appropriation to continue the office of Commissioner of Investigation and reduced its budget from $370,000 to $20,000.

See Two Ways

However, lawyers in the Democratic administration claimed they saw two ways by which Governor Harriman might keep Reuter and his staff on the job and pay them from other appropriations.

One way, they claimed, would be to combine the Office of Commissioner of Investigation with another job in the Executive Department and finance the activities of the probe out of the appropriation for the other position or office.

The other way open would be to have Harriman launch his own investigation under the Moreland Act. This old statute authorizes the governor "at any time either in person or by one or more persons appointed by him, to investigate the management of any department, board, bureau or commission of the state."

Harriman to Sign CrimeCommission Bill, But Objects

ALBANY (AP) — Gov. Harriman said today that, despite his objections, he would sign the Republican crime-commission bill that was passed yesterday at the final day of the 1958 legislative session.

The Democratic governor said in a statement that he still believed a five-member commission would be better than the four-member, bipartisan unit the GOP measure will create.

Must Agree on Members

Harriman said he told the Legislature's Republican leaders yesterday he would sign the bill "after we had mutually agreed on all four members, those to be appointed by me as well as those to be appointed by them"—two by each side. No members have been chosen.

Minutes before the session closed last night at 10:18 p. m. the Legislature's Republican leaders split openly over a plan intended to assure Harriman's signature on the measure.

Mahoney Had Plan

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney rammed through his house a resolution that would have created a special legislative committee to investigate crime, in the event Harriman killed the commission plan. The governor had said the plan was unacceptable to him.

Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck killed Mahoney's resolution in Assembly committee.

There was no split in the Republican leadership on the main bill, however. Assembly Republicans brushed aside Democratic protests and gave final legislative approval to the bi-partisan commission plan yesterday.

There had been hints Harriman would veto the plan.

Another likely veto was avoided at the last minute when the Republican leaders moved to break a year-old deadlock with the governor over raising workmen's compensation benefits.

Join on Benefits

Democrats quickly joined in approving a revised GOP bill to boost from $36 to $45 top weekly benefits to injured workers. Harriman's signature on the measure was expected.

Mahoney tried to head off a veto of the crime-commission bill by forcing through the Senate a resolution that would have created a six-member $150,000 joint committee to probe the underworld.

He said the committee would go into action only if Harriman rejected the commission plan. The governor has no say in creation of legislative committees.

Democrats Object

Democrats cried "blackjack." But, over their bitter protests, Mahoney shoved the bill through his house on a straight party vote, 37-21.

When the measure came up in the Assembly, Heck shoved it into a pigeonhole of the rules committee, which he heads.

"I didn't think we needed it," he told reporters blandly.

Mahoney and Heck have split openly on policy matters at previous sessions. However, they agreed early this year to present a united front to Harriman, who will be running for a second term next fall.

Both Heck and Mahoney are regarded as potential candidates for the Republican nomination to oppose Harriman.

Harriman vetoed two workmen's compensation bills last year because of a rider that drew heavy fire from organized labor.

GOP Passes Union Curbs

Over solid Democratic opposition, the Republicans passed an omnibus bill that would impose stiff curbs on financial dealings of union officials.

If Harriman vetoes the crime commission bill, he will find himself without a special prober of his own.

The annual supplemental budget, also approved yesterday, abolishes Harriman's investigation commissioner by slashing the commissioner's budget funds.

The measure allowed him only $20,000, intended to last until May 1, when the commission would take over. If he wished, however, Harriman could keep him going by dipping into special executive chamber funds.

The supplemental budget also allowed only $20,000 for the Legislature's own "watchdog" committee, a unit created four years ago as a rival to the investigation commissioner. This also will be abolished in the general re-shuffling.

U.S. Chiefs See Stalin Pattern With New Premier

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States leaders were startled today by the news that Soviet Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev had become premier of the Soviet Union. It appeared to be a return to the Stalinist pattern of power.

The move put Khrushchev in position to negotiate directly with President Eisenhower and other Western leaders at a summit conference—if one is ever arranged.

This could have been one reason for the Soviet Communist leader's decision to take over the premiership.

More Khrushchev Power

But U. S. experts on Soviet affairs saw the development as of profound significance in terms of Russia's internal political system.

They saw it as evidence of a vast increase in Khrushchev's personal power, which had heretofore been assumed by many foreign observers but which had not been demonstrated by the actions of the Soviet leaders themselves.

The resignation of Premier Nikolai Bulganin had been expected but there was surprise that Khrushchev was assuming the premiership.

The idea that Khrushchev might take over had been heavily discounted because of the division between party controls and government controls which the post-Stalin leadership in Moscow has carefully cultivated and maintained.

It is just possible that Khrushchev feels this cover-up for his expanded personal power is no longer necessary.

Ives Gives View

A view taken by some in Congress is that Khrushchev has now set himself up as a bigger target for all dissident elements within Russia.

Sen. Ives (R-NY) put this view succintly with the comment to a reporter: "Now somebody will have the knife out for him. That's the way of all dictators."

The White House said President Eisenhower had been advised of the switch of Soviet premiers but that there would be no comment.

Nor was there any immediate comment from Secretary of State Dulles.

Allen Is Upheld On 10 Commandments

ALBANY (AP) — Legislative committees have killed a proposal that would have forced the state education commissioner to supply the so-called inter-denominational version of the ten Commandments to school districts.

Last July, Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. held that the Commandments could not be posted in the schools.

Acting in a case involving the New Hyde Park, L. I., school district, Allen said that "the education of children is not served by acts which create divisiveness, ill-feeling and unwholesome controversy." One faction in the district wanted the Commandments posted. Another objected.

The bill would have required Allen to supply the Commandments to any school district requesting it.

The education committees in the Senate and the Assembly decided against reporting the bill for floor action. The 1958 legislative session ended yesterday.

Three Firemen Die Fighting Chicago Blaze

CHICAGO (AP) — Three firemen were killed and six others injured today in a fast-spreading fire in a big south side auto agency.

The flames spread to three three-story apartment buildings, forcing about 150 residents to flee into the near-freezing weather.

The dead and injured firemen were among about 20 who were trapped inside the flaming building when the roof of the more than half-block long structure collapsed.

The six injured firemen suffered back and head injuries.

Castro Warns Of Strike to Oust Batista

HAVANA (AP)—Rebel leader Fidel Castro declared today a general strike will be called "at any moment" in an all-out effort to overthrow the government of President Fulgencio Batista. He called on all Cubans to join in mass sabotage of transportation and communications.

Alerts Cuba

The guerrilla leader, whose forces strike from hideouts in Oriente Province's Sierra Maestra Range, alerted Cuba for the general strike in a 14-point proclamation circulated in Havana. It warned Cubans to buy large supplies of food, stay off buses and trains and be ready to close all places of employment. All Cubans who refuse to join the strike will be tried as traitors after Batista is overthrown, Castro warned.

He said when the strike begins oil, nails, spikes and glass should be spread on highways. The proclamation included instructions on how to make bottled gasoline bombs.

April Date Possible

"The liberation depends upon all," Castro said. "Demonstrate to America and the world that Cubans, too, know how to overthrow tyranny by means of a general strike, Liberty or Death."

Belief has been growing that the general strike call will come early in April and be coordinated with armed attacks on military establishments, police stations and government buildings. The government has reinforced troops at strategic points.

Meany Bids U.S. Apply Business Curbs as Well

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany called on Congress today to apply any anti-corruption curbs to business as well as labor. He maintained that there has been "far more embezzelement" of corporate funds than of union money.

Meany told the Senate labor subcommittee too that if Congress wants to legislate to improve democracy in union elections it should do the same for elections for members of Congress.

With respect to parallel rules for unions and management, Meany said:

"If unions are to be required to make full public disclosure with respect to all aspects of their finances, certainly the employers should, at the least, be required to make similar public disclosures of their expenditures in the field of labor relations.

"If an employer chooses to hire a professional union-buster to break a union or prevent his employes from joining one, he should at the least be required to make full public disclosure of what he pays in his efforts to destroy the union.

"If the UAW (United Auto Workers Union) is to be compelled to reveal how much is spent supporting strikers in the Kohler strike, the Kohler company should be likewise compelled to reveal how much it spent trying to break the strike."

Riding Club Meeting Features Discussion

WOODSTOCK — Two topics of interest were discussed at a recent meeting of the Woodstock Riding Club, Inc., held at the Odd Fellows Hall, Bearsville. George M. Hard, president, conducted the meeting and the round table discussion which followed.

Both flat and stock saddle riders were generally of the opinion that a beginner, child or adult, gained more confidence by learning to ride with a flat, or English type, saddle. This came as somewhat of a surprise as a number of Western riders took part in the discussion. They expressed the belief that learning on a Western saddle caused beginners in some instances to depend upon the saddle more than the reins.

The question, "Do You Like Palominos" brought forth some interesting reactions from owners and former owners of this color horse and the group was divided. About the only characteristic common to all Palominos is the color.

Color qualifications for show purposes are described by the American Horse Shows Association. "A Palomino shall have, as nearly as possible, the body color of a newly minted U. S. gold coin. The color may vary lighter or darker but variations shall receive a lesser color score. The judge may eliminate animals of extreme variations of body color or those carrying more than 15 per cent dark or off-colored hair in either mane or tail or both. White markings on face or white socks or stockings shall not be penalized but white markings above the knees or hocks shall receive a lesser color score. Horses with pinto markings, stripes on legs, shoulders or down the back or bleached mane or tail shall be disqualified. Eyes shall be dark or hazel and both the same color. Horses with blue, moon, pink or glass eyes shall be disqualified. Skin color shall not be considered."

In its forthcoming recognized show scheduled for Sunday, June 15, the local club will for the first time present a registered Palomino division.

During the business part of the meeting, committee chairmen reported progress on preparatory work in conjunction with the show which will be conducted according to the rules of the American Horse Shows Association of which the Woodstock Riding Club is a regular show member.

Stream Pollution Is Democratic Club Topic

A speaker and a film on the problem of keeping streams free from pollution, followed by a social evening, will be the features of the next open meeting to be presented by the Woodstock Democratic Club Friday, April 25, it was announced this week by club president, Kenneth Downer. Further details will be made known shortly.

Plans are being made also for the Democratic Club's annual rummage sale, to be held at the end of May. Committees are being formed and Mrs. Alice Lewis, vice president, will accept offers from volunteers to serve on these

Question-Answer On Consolidation

How many rural children are now attending the rural schools?
There are 2004.

How many rural schools are open?
There are 20 rural schools open.

How many rural schools will be maintained after consolidation?
It is probable that there will be only six rural schools maintained after consolidation. They will be Lake Katrine, Chambers, Hurley, Port Ewen, Tillson and Rifton.

How many of the rural districts are in debt for their schools?
Six of the rural districts have a debt. These six have relative new buildings. 19 districts have no debt and would, of course, help in paying for the rural schools and the city schools that might be built in the future.

How much valuation is in the rural area?
The rural area has 43% of the assessable wealth. It is possible that in the next 5 to 10 years, the wealth in the rural area will grow more rapidly than the wealth in the city. If so, they will continue to pay an ever increasing proportion of the expenses of the debt in the consolidated district.

Is there strength in the union of the rural and city areas for educational purposes?
In union there is strength, and the greatness of our country is due entirely to the united consolidation of our states. No state could go it alone without weakening both itself and the whole structure of our United States.

Practically every one of our country's large and successful enterprises is made up of a consolidation of a number of smaller enterprises which never could go it alone.

During the early years, the village of Kingston and the village of Rondout were two competing and often antagonistic sections; they never did get anywhere until they consolidated into the city of Kingston, and grew together.

Today, the city of Kingston has about reached the limit of its expansion, being hemmed in by its crowded boundaries; but the suburbs of Kingston are expanding and growing rapidly, and so they will continue into the future.

A vote FOR SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION is an important step toward bringing our city and our suburbs together as a unit, to grow and progress in unity, to the inestimable benefit of ourselves and of our children for generations to come.

Our state urges and richly rewards such consolidation. The city of Kingston cannot afford to ignore the trend of the times, and go it alone. In our world of today, our children need and deserve the best edcation that we can give them. On Tuesday, April 2nd, our votes can give our children the best known today; or we can deprive them of it; the choice is ours.

Matter of FACT

When Alexander the Great died in 323 B.C., his generals divided his empire among themselves. One, a Macedonian named Ptolemy, became satrap or governor of Egypt. About 306 B.C., when all the generals took the title of king, he became king of Egypt. Ptolemy won the respect of the Egyptians by developing commerce and by creating a center of art and culture.

Is Social Security Enough?

It is ironic that two divergent forces—inflation and Social Security—have coexisted in economic America for more than 20 years.

Inflation undermines the purchasing power of the dollar and thus directly weakens the basic foundations of millions of families.

Social Security, on the other hand, aims to build up those foundations.

Social Security is 22 years old. Our present inflation is in its 26th year. Rising prices, costs, and taxes are fruits of inflation. And, as they have settled down on the family life of America, it has become easier for countless persons to forget or to neglect the virtues of thrift and saving that should be the cornerstones of financial self-reliance.

The inroads of inflation have formed a perfect background for the vast growth of Social Security. Millions of middle-class families whose incomes have not kept pace with costs have meekly surrendered to Uncle Sam's plans for them.

And not only have some of them thrown in the sponge of thrift and saving (except as Social Security taxes require) but they have become big borrowers as well.

In this connection, these statistics are significant:

Right now, consumer credit (money borrowed to finance a great variety of goods and services common in the average household) is at an all-time high at $43,250,000,000. As recently as 1945, it was $5,700,000,000.

In previous generations such goods and services were paid for out of current or accumulated savings. The armies of people who owe this 43 billion dollar debt are harrassed by the economic conditions that inflation has inflicted upon them.

I am not saying Social Security is not a positive force in the national economy. Quite the opposite. It is a blessing to every person under its protection who is congenitally thriftless. There are millions of people who are born with a money-spending mania, and with them the only practical way to get them to save is to buy a sizable insurance policy and to be forced to pay to Uncle Sam yearly Social Security taxes.

But I am thinking of all those people who have fairly well disciplined economic lives who are being lulled to sleep by the belief that Social Security will take care of them in their retirement.

As a result, saving and investment have been relegated to the back row. In a decade or two, unless the government takes a bigger hand in greatly increasing Social Security taxes and monthly retirement allowances, this tendency is going to show up in a big way.

Today, the maximum monthly Social Security benefit is $108.50. For a worker and his wife (when she is 65) it is $162.80 a month. Living costs are not coming down. Rather, they are going to rise and thousands of persons in their thirties, forties, and fifties who are paying 2¼ per cent yearly on income of $4,200 (less than $95 in actual savings) are going to come up to retirement age cruelly disillusioned.

There never was a time more important than the present when millions of people under Social Security should critically review their spending and savings habits. Many of those whose debts are included in the forty-three billion dollar consumer credit item mentioned previously have no savings whatever and they are a few steps ahead of bill collectors.

Standards of living should be firmly based on dependable income. And where families continually and forever borrow money and neglect savings, someone should step in and call a halt. Systematic savings (in addition to Social Security taxes) should be built into budgets. If these things are not done, many, many people at retirement are going to say: "Social Security isn't enough!"

expedience, has defaulted almost completely in his responsibilities of leadership."

Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, the only Republican holding statewide office, said measures he recommended had erected new safeguards for consumers, investors and businessmen.

Among other things, Harriman accused the GOP leaders of showing "shocking indifference to the need for action to combat organized crime."

Ineffective, He Says

The governor maintained that the Legislature, by approving a four-man crime commission with two Republican and two Democratic members, "did not come through with a crime commission set up in such a way as to assure its being hard-hitting and effective." Harriman had wanted a three- or five-man commission controlled by Democrats.

Mahoney and Heck said the Legislature had "moved onto new high ground" by approving the crime commission, earmarking 53½ million more for state aid to education in the next school year, passing stiffer controls over labor-management officials, and raising benefits under unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels, aircrafts, some airlines, machine tools and selected issues made progress early this afternoon as a mixed stock market showed a slightly higher leaning.

Gains and losses went from fractions to a point or so.

The market was mixed at the opening but displayed a gradual improvement on moderate trading.

The rise in machine tool orders for the second straight month helped stocks of that industry. An award of air routes was beneficial to the airlines involved.

Aircrafts were ahead a little as President Eisenhower approved several projects for launching space vehicles to determine U. S. capability of exploring the vicinity of the moon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $163.20 with the industrials up 40 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

American Stock Exchange prices rose in quiet trading.

Stillman Says Legislation Aids Newburgh-Beacon Span

Recent Albany legislation was hailed today by John S. Stillman, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority as a major step toward construction of the Newburgh-Beacon bridge.

The legislation, Stillman said, carrys out the objectives of the Bridge Authority's legislative program as was submitted Jan. 17.

Increase in the authority's bonded debt limit will permit raising sufficient funds to cover cost of construction of the Newburgh-Beacon span. The measure asked for boosting the debt limit from $50,000,000 to $70,000,000.

Six bills began reaching the legislature last Friday. Two were acted on Monday, one Tuesday and two yesterday.

Stillman singled out legislators of the Hudson Valley area for their support in the recent Albany action. They included Senator E. Ogden Bush, of Walton, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, Woodstock; Senator Ernest I. Hatfield, Poughkeepsie, and Assemblyman R. W. Pomeroy, Dutchess County; D. Clinton Dominick, Orange County, and Willard C. Drumm, Columbia County.

The authority chairman also noted that news of the Albany legislation was heartening to the Newburgh-Beacon bridge study and action committee appointed by Gov. Harriman.

Other bills pertinent to bridge authority business would remove obsolete provisions affecting the Mid-Hudson Bridge, Poughkeepsie, would clarify the authority's right to issue notes as well as bonds, and repeal provisions relative to the former Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry service.

Adlai Cautions U.S. Retreat on Trade Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson said today it would be "folly and unthinkable" for Congress to refuse to approve the Eisenhower administration's plea for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade law.

He cautioned that "any retreat on trade policy" would not only imperil millions of jobs at home but also have these sweeping impacts overseas:

1,000 in Rally

"It will further weaken our alliances, further enfeeble confidence in our leadership, push the great undeveloped areas into Communist arms, and in the long run isolate, imperil and impoverish us."

The two-time Democratic nominee for president joined with Republican Cabinet officers in a day-long trade rally before 1,000 representatives of organizations backing the trade law.

President Eisenhower was given the clean-up spot with a 9:30 p. m. radio-television speech at a dinner tonight. Vice President Nixon, House Speaker Sam Rayburn and top business leaders, government officials and congressmen were also on the dinner program.

Stevenson, in an address prepared for a luncheon meeting, deplored the need for the conference.

"This conference should not have been necessary at all," he said. "It is a melancholy reflection upon our faltering position in a perilous world."

Assails Foes

Stevenson assailed foes of the 26-year-old reciprocal trade program as apparently "determined to make Stalin a prophet and Prophet and Khrushchev a conqueror." He said they have ignored Soviet boasts that the Reds can win the world peacefully because of superior trade policies.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks told the delegates that if the administration's trade program is "defeated or mutilated" it would "put to hazard" the jobs of more than four and one-half American workers.

Weeks estimated this number of Americans depend on world trade for work.

City Is Getting Another Chance On Ferry Site

Kingston will be given another opportunity to make an offer to the New York State Bridge Authority for purchase of the former Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry property here, before it is put up for public bid, it was learned today.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel recently received a letter from the authority, which indicates that it wants to give the city as much consideration as possible before the date of an auction is set.

The city, under the authority's present plan, can still make an offer. A deadline date had been set earlier in the year as the final day on which the authority would accept an answer on its offer to sell the property for $20,000.

A spokesman for the authority indicated today that further consideration will be given the city if it can make an offer that will not mean a substantial loss of money to the authority.

The city is interested in the property because it will serve as a facility for fire-fighting and for fire-training purposes.

Internal Revenue Service Urges Care of Returns

Taxpayers were urged today by District Director James A. O'Hara to be extremely careful in the preparation of federal income tax returns.

The tax official called particular attention to the following points:

Name and address should be clearly printed or typed in the proper spaces. If a joint return, both names should appear.

The return must be signed. If a joint return, both husband and wife must sign.

All withholding certificates, Forms W-2 for 1957 should be securely attached to the return.

Arithmetic should be double checked by the taxpayer.

A return should not be marked "Amended" unless a prior Form 1040 is already on file. Should a taxpayer desire to submit an amended Form 1040, he must forward the amended return to the same district director's office in which the original return was filed.

Jakarta Plans New Offensive To Crush Rebels

MEDAN, Sumatra (AP) — Jakarta government forces are planning a new offensive into western Sumatra in an effort to crush rebel troops before they attempt a planned counterattack on this important North Sumatra port city.

Lt. Col. Hasan Kasim, chief of staff for the Medan military area, said today that the rebels are now plotting to drive towards Medan from Tapanuli Province south of here but "we will not sit around waiting for them to attack."

Kasim said that Col. Maludin Simbolon, the rebel foreign secretary and a chief military leader, has been in the town of Tarutung for the past four days planning the attack on Medan.

Strong Jakarta forces have been halted at the town of Prapat on the shore of Lake Toba about 100 miles southwest of Medan. If they press on down the main road, they would be in Tapanuli.

Goldwater Feud With Reuther Is Set for Climax

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter Reuther and Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) were to square off today for what could be a fiery climax of their long feud.

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, was called to testify as possibly the final witness in the Senate rackets investigating committee's probe of violence in the nearly four-year-old UAW strike against the Kohler Co., a Wisconsin maker of plumbing fixtures.

Hearing Postponed

Today's hearing had been set to start at 11 a. m. but was postponed to 11:30 a. m. and then to 1:30 p. m. No reason was given immediately for the delay. Crowds filled the big caucus room in the Senafe Office Building when the doors were opened in the morning but filed out later when the committee announced the postponement.

Goldwater, a member of the committee, long has been a critic of Reuther. The two have swapped unpleasantries at long range. A month ago, Reuther and Goldwater called each other cowards.

Looks Forward to Clash

The Arizona senator has said Reuther's appearance could result in a "Donnybrook" but that he hoped it wouldn't. Whatever comes out of it, Goldwater told newsmen in advance, "I look forward to it."

Reuther wanted to testify at the opening of the Kohler probe in late February, but after a partisan squabble within the committee it was decided to hear other witnesses first.

Accused of Bias

The UAW chief has accused Republican members of the committee of being biased and wanting to smear him and the auto workers union. Reuther has included Goldwater in this charge, along with Sens. Mundt (R-SD) and Curtis (R-Neb).

Herbert V. Kohler, the company's head, testified yesterday that the UAW resorted to mob violence, "night riding vandalism" and illegal boycotting against his firm.

8 Cuban Rebels, Arms Cache Seized

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — United States authorities today stopped a boat loaded with arms and ammunition and captured 36 men. The officers identified 8 of the men as Cuban rebel soldiers.

The authorities claimed the men picked up the arms and ammunition from U. S. territory and were trying to take them to Cuba.

Officials said the boat, "El Orion," refused to stop when hailed and a U. S. craft rammed it 5 to 8 miles off this city at the southernmost tip of Texas.

known whether they were related to the fund shortage.

Lane now is a high school teacher in Weehawken, N. J.

Wilmont still is deputy commissioner.

The State Department of Audit & Control said early this year that $3,100 in department funds was missing.

Reached at his home in Weehawken today, Lane said the fund shortage was the result of "some misappropriation of funds by some employe."

Lane, who appeared before the grand jury last Monday, would not comment on the presentment itself. "I'd just as soon let the thing die down," he said. "The sooner this thing is over the better."

'River Kwai,' Top Film; Guinness, Joanne Oscared

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Joanne Woodward, who came to Hollywood's fanciest party of the year in a dress she sewed herself, and Britain's "man-of-1,000-faces," Alec Guinness, today hold moviedom's top Oscars.

"The Bridge on the River Kwai" was voted the best picture last night at Hollywood's 30th Academy Awards, a show that many critics called one of the best ever.

Honor for Buttons

Red Buttons, a comic unwanted by television, won the supporting actor Oscar for his first movie and first serious role. Buttons played the U. S. airman who married a Japanese girl in "Sayonara."

Miyoshi Umeki, who played Buttons' wife in the picture, won the feminine supporting Oscar. She was the first Japanese to win the honor.

Miss Woodward bought $125 worth of material and whipped up a dress and coat that looked all right among the high priced Dior and Don Loper creations of the other movie queens.

"I didn't think I had a chance," she said. "So I didn't want to invest too much. Even when they called my name, I thought they said 'Deborah Kerr.'"

Does It Hard Way

Miss Woodward had an actress' tour de force in "The Three Faces of Eve"—and she did it the hard way. The picture was a true life psychiatric study of a Georgia woman with a triple personality. Miss Woodward, a Georgian herself, did the sudden changes in continuity rather than shooting each personality separately.

Guinness, usually a master of British satire, played a hard-nosed British colonel in "Kwai." His award was accepted by actress Jean Simmons, an old friend. Guinness wanted to fly over for the Academy Awards but an insurance policy on his current movie prevented him leaving England.

In London, Guinness said, "I am very delighted and surprised." At the studio where he is working his colleagues gave him an ovation.

Jap Star Elated

Miyoshi, a Japanese singing star, said, "I didn't hope to win. I just happy to be nominated."

For Buttons, the award was the culmination of a career that has had more ups and downs than a Grand Canyon mule pack.

"I feel this should serve as an inspiration for every guy who has been written off in this business as I was," he said.

Other top awards went to David Lean, the British director of "Kwai," and to song writers Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Heusen for their hit, "All The Way."

More than 70 top stars participated in the NBC telecast of the awards.

Presley Will Take Basic in Texas

FT. CHAFFEE, Ark. (AP) — Pvt. Elvis A. Presley will spend his last full day here today getting his records in shape for assignment to Ft. Hood, Tex., where he will take eight weeks of basic combat training with the 2nd Armored Division.

The rock 'n' roll idol is scheduled to leave the reception center here tomorrow morning. He probably will travel in a chartered bus with a group of 18 other recruits.

Presley wound up his processing yesterday by marking GI equipment and clothing issued to

Says Saud Will Go to Austria For 'Rest Cure'

CAIRO (AP) — The newspaper Al Ahram reported from Saudi Arabia today that King Saud will leave for a "rest cure" in Austria within a month.

The dispatch from Jidda said the King will stay several weeks in Austria while his brother, Crown Prince Feisal, reorganizes the antiquated government machinery in the desert kingdom. Feisal, titular premier and foreign minister for several years, early this week forced his brother to give him actual control of foreign and domestic affairs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate today a resolution setting the congressional Easter recess April 3-14.

mer applicants, such as high school and college students.

Joseph Mahar, unemployment insurance supervisor of the local employment office, said that of the total of 2,898 claims for unemployment insurance, a total of 2,507 were receiving benefits ranging from $10 to $36 per week, depending on previous earnings.

An additional 44 are receiving either veterans compensation or federal unemployment compensation.

2,485 City Claims

Hart explained that of the total number of insurance claims —2,898—a total of 2,485 were in the City of Kingston and 413 in the Ellenville branch of the employment office.

Locally, about 60 per cent of the claims are from persons employed in non-manufacturing industries, Hart said. The bulk of this group is in the building and construction trades, the remainder scattered fairly equally among the seasonal industries, such as resorts, river transportation, etc., Hart said.

The remaning 40 per cent of the claims are in the manufacturing field. The bulk of these is in apparel and related industries.

In the apparel industry the claims are generally not long-time applicants but are due to short-time lay-offs, according to Hart.

He said that in January, 1957, approximately $241,000 was distributed in insurance payments from his office. In January, 1958, approximately $300,000 was distributed.

The checks are mailed from the Albany Central Office directly to the claimant's home.

AMERICAN MENU

Passover Cheese Cake Would Be Treat in Any Household

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Passover, celebrating the liberation of the Jewish people, begins at sundown April 4th and lasts until sundown April 12th.

Today Jewish cookery is the result of "sampling" in each country where the Jewish people settled. Each country's dishes were adopted to conform to their dietary regulations, according to Edith Stoffer, informed director of Home Service of the B. Manischewitz Co.

Passover restrictions forbid use of products not packaged under authorized supervision. However, modern mass production and distribution enable today's Jewish housewives to serve her family a wide variety of Passover foods—many ready-to-serve—all conforming to dietary regulations.

Miss Stoffer gave us this recipe for Passover cheese cake, which conforms both to traditional American tastes and Jewish dietary regulations.

PASSOVER Cheese Cake combines American taste with Jewish dietary regulations for a fine dessert with universal appeal.

Pesachdige Cheese Cake
(Makes 10-12 servings)

Two cups matzo meal, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, ¾ cup (6-ounces) softened butter, 3 cups (1½ pounds) cream-styled cottage cheese, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons potato starch, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 4 whole eggs, 2 egg yolks, ¾ cup light cream.

Mix matzo meal with sugar and cinnamon; with pastry blender or wooden spoon mix in butter. Press mixture into bottom and sides of a well-greased 8 or 9-inch spring form pan; press hard with back of spoon to form a firm crust. Chill for at least ½ hour. Meanwhile, with electric mixer or spoon, mix cheese until fluffy. Blend sugar with potato starch, lemon juice, rind and salt; add slowly to cheese; beat until smooth. Add eggs and egg yolks, one at a time, blending after each addition. Stir in cream. Pour cheese mixture into crust-lined pan. Bake in a very hot (500 degrees F.) oven for 10 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Reduce oven temperature to 200 degrees F. (slow oven) and bake for 1 hour. Turn off heat; open oven door slightly, and allow cake to cool for ½ hour. Cool on rack. Remove sides of pan. Refrigerate until cold. Garnish with toasted almonds and strawberries.

PASSOVER HOLIDAYS DINNER MENU: Sweet wine and matzo, fresh fruit cup, chicken soup with matzo balls, roast capon with matzo stuffing, oven-roasted potatoes, cranberry sauce, steamed fresh asparagus with lemon juice, tossed green salad, cider vinegar and peanut oil dressing, assorted matzos, sponge cake, tea with lemon or black coffee

Predicts Great Growth for Area Of Great Lakes

CHICAGO (AP) — An Army engineer said today that improvements in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence system will make the Great Lakes in effect one of the "seas of the world."

Maj. Gen. Charles G. Holle, special assistant to the Chief of Engineers, said the project may provide "an impetus to the growth of the midwest which stretches the limits of the imagination, and will affect every interest, every activity and every human being in the region."

Holle made these predictions in an address at the 20th annual American Power Conference of power industry officials, engineers, educators, business and industrial executives and government officials.

Among benefits of the project, he said, will be freight savings in grain exports, increased values of midwestern farm lands, and rapidly rising consumption of electrical power.

When related undertakings are completed, he said, the connected inland waterway system will extend from Mexico to Labrador and from the Alleghenies to the Great Plains.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

WHAT'S A RACKETEER?

A racketeer is one who singly, or in combination with others, extorts money or advantages by violence or unlawful interference with other people's business.

The recent New York subway strike is evidence of racketeering by the "invisible government"—the "public be damned"! When a few hundred strikers can deprive 4,000,000 people of transportation to jobs, stores and their homes, something is dead wrong with this country of ours.

MR HUTTON

Does a one-sided law make a thing right? For instance, the Wagner Act of 1937 promised to lessen strikes and promote tranquility and peace. When the Act became law, it worked in reverse,—more strikes, not less, and many attended by violence. For years the Government took a wink like a cop whose palm was greased.

Since that Act became law, we have had 70,000 strikes. Wages have been forced up faster than productivity. Everybody has to pay more for everything he uses.

Apparently, the union bosses are out to control both industry and Government. The Becks and the Hoffas have been riding high.

The labor bosses—those without any sense of responsibility—have more power over the American people than has the American Government. Who gave them that power? Why, the American people—through Congress! The bosses can tie up every truck, railroad or ship. This is more than the Government, itself, can do.

Under these conditions, neighbor, this is not a free country!

Junior manager (confiding to his partner of a millinery firm)—I have a wonderful idea for increasing trade. I have arranged to have a scale put in front of the store, so women can weigh themselves free.

Senior partner — How's that going to sell hats?

Junior manager — Well, the scale will register about five pounds higher than it should. When a woman sees that reading, right away she's going to want something to cheer her up. And there, before her eyes, is a window full of beautiful hats!

Earl Gwin of Hot Springs, Virginia, once put his dog, Trailer, on the scent of a wild turkey that had disappeared in the brush. Unfortunately, the dog took up the back scent of the bird, which was an old bird. So Trailer just trailed and trailed. He must have trailed over half of Virginia, and, since he was on the back trail, never caught up with the bird. Instead, he was found barking at the nest in which that turkey had been hatched many years before.

This 'N' That

Spring seems to very far away. But there are signs to tell that, on some not too distant day, we'll waken to its spell. A crocus and daffodil are peeping through the snow. I heard a robin on the hill, and Red Breast ought to know! The miracle of seed and sun will soon begin again. And God's good cycle—never done—will thrill the hearts of men. Eternal spring is in the air, and birds and grass and trees will welcome it with wordless prayer in pastoral symphonies. The birds will sing, the grass grow green, the trees put forth their leaves. And comfort from the great Unseen will warm each heart that grieves. And so our lives will ever be: Though winter sorrows cling, remember bird and bud and tree——and God's eternal spring.—Karl Flaster.

The boy came to the birthday party and shyly handed a box of candy to his little hostess.

Hostess (squealing)—Oh, nougats! My favorites.

Hastily she opened the box. Then her face fell.

Hostess—Why, it's empty!

Boy ((confessing)—Well, uh—they are my favorites too.

Why We Say--

"GO SCOT FREE"

TAX: The expression, "To go Scot free" is often used today, although few people are able to define its origin. In the early English language, Scot was the word for tax. Thus, one who went Scot free got off without paying taxes.

To Remain Upstate

Rev. Ray Kulman Reconsiders Call From Saugerties

The Rev. Ray E. Kulman of Schenectady, who recently had accepted the call to return to the pulpit of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties, has reconsidered and will remain at Schenectady, it was announced by Glenford Genthner Jr., lay president.

In his announcement to the Saugerties congregation, the Rev. Mr. Kulman, a former pastor of the Saugerties church, indicated that it was necessary to reconsider due to an urgent request from the council of First English Lutheran Church to continue the recently initiated evangelism campaign. The Rev. Mr. Kulman has been pastor of the Schenectady church since 1947, when he resigned from the Saugerties church.

Accepted by Letter

The Rev. Mr. Kulman accepted the call to the Saugerties church last week in a letter read to the congregation following the worship service March 16. He preached as a candidate in the Saugerties pulpit Sunday, Feb. 23. At that time he was accepted by a combined congregational vote after the two morning services.

The local pastorate has been vacant since the resignation of the Rev. Richard I. Crossland in September 1957. The Rev. Mr. Crossland resigned to accept a call to do mission work in the Bow Lake area near Seattle, Wash.

The Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp, has been conducting the early matin service Sundays and various guest preachers have been conducting the 11 a. m. worship services.

Wildlife at Peak In State; Poses Threat to Lands

ITHACA (AP) — The state's wildlife population is at an all-time high, a zoologist maintains, and steps must be taken "to protect our interests from this hungry horde."

"We have more wild animals in New York State than ever before during historical times," W. J. Hamilton Jr., a professor at the State College of Agriculture, said yesterday at the 47th annual Farm and Home Week at Cornell University.

"The increase in state-owned lands and the changes from extensive forested areas to open tracts, and current land use has resulted in a phenomenal increase in wildlife," the zoologist said.

Damage to crops and property caused by this wildlife population "is a very tangible one, and militant efforts must be made to protect our interests from this hungry horde," he added.

"Low fur prices," he pointed out, "have resulted in a decrease in the take of fur-bearers. Muskrats and beavers are now at an all-time high. Complaints of beaver damage now exceed that of all other wildlife."

Another speaker yesterday said that many farms would go the way of the blacksmith unless newer and more business-like types of farm organizations and enterprises were developed.

Jonathan S. Tobey of Shiremanstown, Pa., a poultry specialist, said "the business aspects of farming have been left in the wake of technological advances. Today many farms are in the same position that blacksmiths were 50 to 60 years ago."

Mahoney Acting Like Man After Nomination

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY (AP)—Walter J. Mahoney, the Senate's Republican majority leader, emerged from the 1958 legislative session as a man definitely after bigger political game.

The 50-year-old Buffalo lawyer went into the session last January high on almost everybody's list of potential candidates for the GOP nomination for governor.

But there was talk that that was not really what Mahoney was after—that he wanted control of the Republican state organization, and a shot at the governor's chair, perhaps, in 1962.

Maybe so. Between January and most of March, however, Mahoney acted more like a candidate than his teammate in the Assembly, Speaker Oswald D. Heck, who covets the gubernatorial nomination openly.

Mahoney seems to have taken pains to cultivate a growing impression that he is the party's scrappiest challenger. He has waded into Democratic Gov. Harriman with both political fists pumping.

Takes to Give

As they say of aggressive boxers, Mahoney doesn't mind taking a punch or two if he can get in a few good belts of his own.

This business of being a fighting politician could pay rich dividends at the GOP convention in August.

It has been reported many times that the party is tinged with defeatism and fearful that Harriman can't be beaten. These same reports have it that the nomination is likely to go to a man who is not afraid.

Leonard Hall, the former GOP national chairman, has taken a pugnacious posture in his recent speeches. Hall would like the nomination.

Out-Spoken on Floor

Mahoney seems to have read those reports. Witness his outburst in the Senate this week.

During debate over the Republicans' workmen's compensation bill, Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki waggled a warning finger at Mahoney.

"The governor will take care of your bill—and you, too," he growled.

"Here's ONE fellow who's not frightened of your governor," Mahoney proclaimed. "He's been trying to get me for four years and he hasn't succeeded yet."

Challenges Him to Run

Zaretzki shot back slyly:

"Well, if you're not afraid of him, then why don't you run against him?"

The Senate rocked with laughter.

Mahoney has let it be known that he is the number one Apostle of the stiff-spine policy in GOP legislative councils. He preaches a simple theme: "Treat him rough."

"Him" is Harriman.

The tactic is to send Harriman bills that the governor finds tough to swallow but politically embarassing to veto.

On the Senate floor, Mahoney put it this way:

"We're going to send him more bills that will choke him right up to here"—(indicating his neck)—"than any governor ever has seen."

And they did.

Deaths

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—James A. Finnegan, 50, secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and national campaign manager for Adlai Stevenson in the 1956 presidential campaign, died yesterday. Finnegan had been active in Democratic politics for more than 25 years, served as the party's chairman in Philadelphia and also was a former Philadelphia city councilman and president of the council.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Victor Reginald Beecroft, 71, veteran dramatic actor who appeared in many Broadway plays, silent movies and later radio and television, died Tuesday. Beecroft, who was born in London and came to this country in 1908, retired in 1955.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Mae E. Smith, 64, wife of K. Wesley Smith, retired newspaperman, died Tuesday. Smith formerly was with The Indianapolis News and in Los Angeles he was editorial page editor of the Times.

Scratcher Scratches

MILWAUKEE, (AP)—Terry M. Repischak, 18, had two weeks in which to erase his initials from two benches and a wall of the 6th precinct police station. District Judge Hansen told Terry to get busy with sandpaper after it was testified the youth scratched the initials with a key while waiting for a friend who had been arrested.

Detective Work

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—City firemen answered a false alarm here recently and when they returned to the station found someone had stolen three wallets. So, they played back the tape recording of the person who turned in the false alarm and recognized the voice as that of a former fireman. Darrell Livengood, 21, finally admitted to police that he turned in the alarm to give him time to enter the station living quarters and take the wallets. He spent the $48 he stole, he said. He was charged with burglary.

No Further Comment

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. Jay Stahlhut commented to some friends that the new style sack dress is just that, a sack. A few days later she received a package. Inside was a dress made from printed feed sacks.

Gravity Major Space Problem

Manned Satellite Is First Big Step in Reaching Moon

By STEVE LOWELL

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (AP) — The prime space age problem can be posed in five letters. It's Zero-G.

Zero-G means no gravity. When man gets far into space, away from the earth's pull, he will weigh nothing.

Col. John Paul Stapp, space's No. 1 pioneer, puts it this way:

"We must find out how well man can change gravity climates. A 150-pound man on earth would weigh 25 pounds on the moon, but during his flight from earth he would weigh nothing.

Animals Not Answer

"There is no way to experiment with prolonged absence of gravity except with an orbital satellite research vehicle. We can learn a good deal with animals, but eventually we will need man to experiment with total weightlessness."

Putting it another way, the first step to the moon—or to anywhere in outer space—will be a manned satellite. Then, says Stapp, it will be a space platform.

The next probability, he believes, would be a moon landing and exploration — "and that is about as far as we can conjecture at this time."

Gained Fame in 1954

A 47-year-old physician, with curly brown hair, carrying 170 pounds on a 5 foot 7½ frame, Stapp first won fame in 1954. Then he traveled 632 miles an hour on a rocket sled designed to see whether a human could survive the jarring starts and stops of a rocket into space.

Of the solution to Zero-G, he says:

"This may turn out to be as easy on man as it was for him to go through the sound barrier, but we'll never know until we try. Indications are that he will adjust. He did when he learned to fly."

Weightlessness is the sort of thing you can experience for a fraction of a second when you drive at fairly high speed over a comparatively sharp rise in a highway. As the car clears the bump and starts down the other side, your body rises for an instant off the car seat. Roller coaster riders know the same feeling.

Tests Altitudes

Capt. Joe Kittinger is an Air Force pilot who has done considerable experimenting in weightlessness. He also has taken a balloon up 96,000 feet to test human reaction to high altitudes.

Kittinger will climb to 20,000 feet, level off, fly at top speed, then put the plane into a climbing angle of about 70 degrees, push the stick ahead and go over the same sort of hump that a roller coaster rider would.

Anything not fastened down goes to the top of the canopy above his head. So would he, if his seat belt didn't hold him.

But the longest Kittinger has been able to maintain this weightlessness is 35 seconds. That's not long enough, says another captain who won a Ph. D. at the University of Illinois this year with a thesis on weightlessness.

Long Exposure roblem

Capt. Grover J. D. Schack of the missile center space biology branch says: "Long term exposure is something we know very little about."

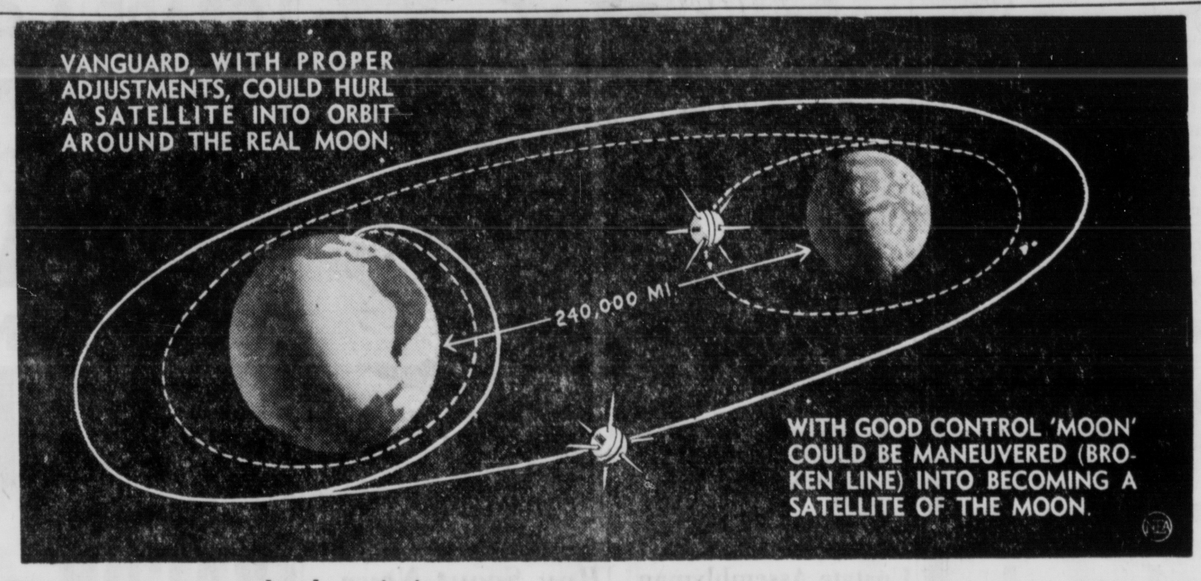
Schack has made many flights with Kittinger. He has found that man can't eat or drink in the usual way while he is in Zero-G.

Open containers just don't work. Squeeze bottles or tubes will. Water won't flow. It will roll out of an ordinary glass and be suspended in globules. To get a drink, you splash it into your mouth.

Put a peanut in you mouth and it's apt to float back out.

Causes

Hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure cause about 90 per cent of all heart and blood vessel diseases, according to the American Heart Association.



Ring Around the Moon—

In the wake of Vanguard I's successful flight into space, we can expect "attempts to do even more spectacular things," according to Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the Navy's Vanguard program. Hagen and other American satellite experts envision an artificial moon in orbit around the earth and the moon—240,000 miles away. Or, says Hagen, "with good control, it could be maneuvered into becoming a satellite of the moon"—so it would then circle the moon instead of the earth. Hagen, who says, "the world isn't going to stand still" now that the U. S. and Russia have each launched two satellites, believes we can put a ring around the moon—perhaps within a year if we try hard enough.

Youth Wins Stay In Murder Case

HORNELL (AP) — Frederick P. Sommer Jr. has won a stay in his first-degree murder trial to permit his attorney to seek a change of venue.

Sommer, 18, has admitted to police that he killed two men last December to get their automobiles for use in planned holdups.

Joseph Nasser, Sommer's lawyer, won the delay yesterday from Supreme Court Justice G. Robert Whitmer. It gives him time to ask the Appellate Division for permission to move the trial from Steuben County.

Nasser said it would be impossible to find jurors in the county who were unaware of the second killing in adjoining Chemung County.

The blond, stocky Sommer was to go on trial Monday for the murder of Leo Brown, 38, of Corning.

The second victim was Cecil Stratton, 43, of Horseheads.

Sommer has been indicted for first-degree murder in Stratton's slaying by the Chemung County grand jury but Steuben County authorities were already holding for Brown's slaying.

Sommer was arrested Dec. 27 in Painted Post. Police said he was driving Brown's car.

Family Matter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The McNultys take care of their own. So when John McNulty, who was visiting his brother Francis, had his car stolen, Francis looked into the matter. Francis is a policeman, and it took him only an hour to find brother John's car.

New Moons Make Going Rough for Science Teachers

DENVER (AP) — Every time another Sputnik, Vanguard or Explorer goes into orbit, science teachers shudder a little bit. They are falling just that much further behind the times.

Success Doubtful

That's the hard core of the problem facing the American education system, all the way from kindergarten through college. It's a problem the National Science Teachers Assn. is tackling in convention here, with little real hope of success.

Science teachers particularly at the high school level, are finding it almost impossible to keep up with the latest developments," says Kenneth Vordenberg, science supervisor for the Cincinnati secondary schools. "They lack the time, and the money, to keep up their studies. And all too often they just throw in the towel."

The problem is a real one, according to John S. Richardson, professor of science education at Ohio State University.

Need More Than Pay

"Next September," Richardson said today, "American high schools will need 8,500 new science teachers. If they're lucky, they'll get about 3,500. The rest of the 5,500 college graduates in science will go into private industry."

Higher salaries would go a long way toward solving the problem, the Ohio educators agreed, but it will take more than that.

"Teachers need a status in the community, they need to feel a respect for their profession," Vordenberg said.

Refrigerator cooky dough can be kept on hand for a week or more and baked as needed.

Blames Publicity

Mobster Parley Figure to Sell His Restaurant

BUFFALO (AP)—Roy Carlisi, under indictment for refusing to discuss his presence at a gangland meeting in Apalachin last fall, is planning to sell his restaurant and bar here.

The lawyer, Joseph P. Runfola, told the State Liquor Authority yesterday that Carlisi plans to sell the restaurant "to meet expenses he is incurring."

"Since the incidents of Nov. 14," Runfola said, "it is obvious that this man has been harassed and food sales in the club may have reflected the adverse publicity this gentleman has received."

Another delegate to the convention was quizzed in New Jersey yesterday by the Union County grand jury.

Frank T. Majuri was brought up from the state prison to face more questions about the Apalachin meeting. He refused to answer any questions and was returned to prison where he is serving a one to two-year sentence for bookmaking.

Sixty underworld figures were rounded up and questioned after state police surprised them in Apalachin Nov. 14.

Carlisi was indicted March 7 by the Tioga County, N. Y., grand jury on criminal contempt charges for refusing to answer questions about the meeting.

Hallion Is Named VFW Commander

Francis J. Hallion of Livingston Street, Saugerties was elected commander of Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW at the annual meeting Wednesday night at VFW Hall.

Hallion replaces Valmore M. Carpenter who served as post commander for 1957.

Others named were Frank Meyer, senior vice commander; Ignazio Bosco, junior vice commander; Donald G. Rice, quartermaster; Arthur De Celle, chaplain; Louis P. Francello, judge advocate; Dr. Herman Ash, post surgeon and Charles Arold Jr., adjutant.

Combined installation ceremonies with the Auxiliary will be held Sunday, April 20 at 3 p. m. in VFW Hall, Livingston Street.

First Automobile Ad

The first "automobile" ad of all time appeared in the Philadelphia Gazette in 1805. Today, the auto industry invests more advertising money in newspapers than in any other medium.

Bequest Benefits Certain Scholars

ITHACA (AP) — New Jersey and Pennsylvania students at Cornell University will benefit from a $400,000 bequest left by a Newark, N. J., couple.

The will of Mrs. Mary Bernard Shoemaker, who died in October, 1956, provides for the establishment at Cornell of a "Mary A. B. Bernard and Marshall N. Shoemaker Fund" commemorating her and her late husband, a consulting engineer and architect in Newark, N. J.

The terms of the will, announced yesterday by the university, give preference to "girls and boys from the city of Newark, N. J.," or to "girls and boys from the 21st ward of the city of Philadelphia known as Manayunk."

Both the Shoemakers were born in Manayunk. Their interest in Cornell stemmed from Shoemaker's partnership in a construction firm with G. E. J. Pistor, a Cornell graduate.

Lambs Go to School

JOHNSON CITY (AP) — So that fellow-pupils could really understand "baa baa black sheep," Doona Finch, 6, and her brother, Kenneth, 10, took two pet lambs to school.

The lambs were said to have behaved as well as—perhaps better than—the pupils.

Sour Grapes: Soviet

Reds Play Down 3rd U.S. Moon

LONDON (AP) — The Russians squeezed sour grapes today at the news that the United States has put up one more artificial satellite than the Soviets have.

In an obvious reference to the 31-pound weight of America's new Explorer III, Moscow Radio said sending up satellites "of microscopic dimensions" will never solve the problems of interplanetary travel.

"The possibility for early solution of the question of interplanetary travel rests on the creating of artificial satellites of considerable weight," the broadcast declared.

The Soviet Union's Sputnik II weighed 1,120 pounds.

Cub Pack 4

Pack 4, Cub Scouts, sponsored by the Fair Street Reformed Church, held its monthly Pack meeting Monday night. Featured were exhibits of the Alaskan Highway, made by the Cubs at their Den meetings during the month. Shadow boxes showing various scenic views along the route, and displays of historical and interesting landmarks were spread out on the display tables, each in ihs proper place beside a large map drawn to scale by the boys.

Each Den participated by illustrating a certain section of the Highway, which was then put together to complete the entire project. Also shown was a film, "The Al-Can Trailer Trek," which showed a trailer caravan making the trip.

Highlight of the Court of Honor, presided over by Cubmaster Peter Emerick and Assistant Cubmaster Herbert Herdman, was the graduation into Scouting of another Pack 4 Cub. Richard Draves, accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Draves, was presented his graduation certificate and welcomed into Troop 4, Boy Scouts, by Troop Committee Chairman Elmer Carney who acted for Scoutmaster Robert Eastment.

Bear badge, Robert Costello, John Provenzano; Lion badge, David Hammers; silver arrow on Wolf badge, David Short, William Lahl; silver arrow on Bear badge, Bruce MacFadden; gold arrow on Wolf badge, William Lahl, Milton Grover; gold arrow on Bear badge, Jack Boyd, gold arrow on Lion badge, David Hammers. David Hammers and Robert Hayner were presented with Scout Books and welcomed into the Webelos Den by Assistant Cubmaster Gordon Kent.

The Pack also welcomed Bruce Anderson, who was presented his Bobcat pin as he joined the Cubbing Trail.

Den 2, Den Mother Hilda Emerick, led the opening with the pledge to the Flag and singing "America the Beautiful." Den 3, Den Mother Patricia Cooper, led the closing with a singing of "Good-night Cub Scouts."

Cubby, the Parents Attendance Award, was won by Den 5, Den Mother Elsie Kent.

Ring Found in Church

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A $4,000 diamond and sapphire ring has been found wedged between the cushion and a wall in the priest's section of a confessional in old St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church.

The sexton found the ring and gave it to Father John Overend, who had it appraised, then delivered it to police.

Central Hudson Holds Meeting Of Stockholders

An estimated 175 area stockholders of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation were in attendance Tuesday at the annual meeting of stockholders in the utility company's Poughkeepsie general office. Of the outstanding shares of common stock eligible to vote at the meeting, 2,308,937 shares or 77 per cent were represented in the voting.

Re-elected at today's meeting to serve as directors for the year were Ernest R. Acker, president and general manager; Peter Cantline, Newburgh; Fabian L. Russell, Saugerties; C. B. Schmidt, Poughkeepsie; Henry D. Sherwood, Pine Plains; Roy C. Ketcham, Fishkill; Lelan F. Sillin Jr., vice president and assistant general manager; Alva S. Staples, Kingston; and John Wilkie, vice president and treasurer.

Authorize More Stock

The stockholders also authorized 1,000,000 additional shares of common stock for issuance from time to time to help finance the company's future capital requirements.

Presiding over the meeting was Ernest R. Acker, company president, who reviewed the growth of the company's business and answered stockholders' questions. The stockholders were shown a 30-minute color slide film highlighting the company's progress in 1957 in terms of the residential, commercial and industrial expansion of the Central Hudson Valley. A number of modern utility vehicles and related equipment were on display for the inspection of the stockholders.

Of the 15,643 holders of Central Hudson's common stock, about 36 per cent or 5,631 shareholders are residents of the territory served by Central Hudson.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene —

The movie industry has to fight not only television and an apathetic audience. It still gets pressure from all sides.

This week G-man J. Edgar Hoover asked the industry to soft-pedal films glorifing crime. This is believed to be the first time the FBI has made a formal pitch to the movies to hold down the shoot-'em-up epics.

Films Are Limited

Until recently, the industry also heeded a request by the Treasury Department to avoid narcotics subjects. Films are still more limited in handling dope stories than is TV.

The services exert an influence through granting or denying the use of troops, equipment and facilities. "The Caine Mutiny" had to pass Navy muster before the fleet cooperated. The Air Force also made "suggestions" about the treatment of the romance of an American flier and Japanese actress in "Sayonara."

Recently, "The Hunters" script had a hot romance between a senior Air Force officer (Robert Mitchum) and a junior officer's wife (May Britt). The torrid aspects of the affair were toned down by request.

Supervises Titles

Supervision even extends to titles. Twenty Century-Fox had a comedy called "A Nice Little Bank That Should Be Robbed." The bankers objected, so the title became "How To Rob A Nice Little Bank." The FBI put thumbs down on a blueprint for bank robbery. Now it's back to the original title, the studio figuring perhaps bankers are easier to fight than the FBI. . . .

The movie town is still reeling from the deaths of Jesse Lasky, Al Lichtman, Harry Cohn, Mike Todd and Don Hartman. Never was production talent needed so badly. Yet the ranks of producers are thinning.

Shock to Press Corps

Hartman's death was a particular shock to the press corps. Only last week he was circulating genially among the guests at a party to hail Sophia Loren's first year in Hollywood. Hartman was plugging his first independent film, "Desire Under The Elms." He was also fighting the "adults-only" tag on the picture in Chicago. His reasoning:

"The Puritan influence has invaded all our lives, our art forms. In the American home they don't mention sex so the kids get the impression it's something dirty. They all end up frightened about a very important part of our life —frightened of the very way we all got here. . . ."

Money for Newspapers

The American public spends $3,212,000 a day, $26,413,000 a week, and $1,373,464,000 a year for newspapers. With Canada added the figures come to $3,428,000 a day, $28,117,000 a week, $1,462,092,000 a year.

New Eagle Scout Gets Recognition At Board Meeting

The annual charter review and the presentation of a new Eagle Scout highlighted the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts board of directors meeting Tuesday at Governor Clinton Hotel.

Kenneth Mance Jr. of Boy Scout Troop 28, sponsored by Ellenville Methodist Church, achieved Eagle rank and received recognition at a ceremony during the board meeting.

Conducts Review

Walter Horsley, deputy regional scout executive assigned to Eastern New York conducted the review of the council's 1957 record and helped establish the goals for 1958. He noted training improvement in units meeting standards for outdoor activities, in number of scouts receiving Boys Life — scouting magazine for boys, a gain in total boys to 2,994, but directed attention to a loss in membership number of boys age 11 to 14.

The 1958 goals were established and include gains in all phases. Training goals for leaders and junior leaders were definitely increased. Other goals are as follows: increase number of commissioners serving units to 40; units meeting standards of outdoor activities to 94; rank advancement 1,500; number of scout units to 113; total membership with increases in Cubs, Scouts, Explorers to 3,150 and units qualifying for National awards to 55.

In summing up the review, Horsley compared these goals with the 1956 and 1957 results and stated that attaining the goals would mean a considerable improvement. He complimented the council on the present attainments.

Deficit in February

Irving Kotrady, treasurer, analyzed the February finance statement and noted that operations were within the budget but at a deficit in February since campaign returns were just coming in at that time.

Scout Executive Nelson L. Carter distributed copies of the new Merit Badge Counselor list. Each unit is to receive two copies each and the commissioner staff, advancement committee and district chairman are to receive copies. This Merit Badge Counselor list covers the seven districts and a total of 466 councilors with each of the 101 merit badge subjects covered by some councilor.

Health, safety and activities committees are continuing development of the safety program, the national effort of scouting for 1958. Dr. Robert Ploss reported that a den chief training conference is scheduled for April 19 at the George Washington School and a junior leader training course at Camp Tri-Mount was set for May 16, 17 and 18.

Council Commissioner Sherwood Lasher reported plans are set for council camporee May 23, 24 and 25 and invited everyone to join with the commissioner's staff in helping with the camporee.

Activity Reports

District chairmen reported on activities in their districts. Lewis Wallace reported Kingston District had two new units being organized, that safety program was underway and leader roundtable attendance was going to 100 persons. Rondout Valley reported three vacancies had been filled on the district committee and that the finance campaign headed by William Joyce of Kerhonkson was progressing.

William Batchelor reported Saugerties District has two new units and five more being developed. Clement Hulick reporting for Harold Bender of Northern District said that three new units were in and two more were developing. He reported that Charles Spence had lined up a community bicycle rodeo (safety check) for June and the American Legion would supply reflector tape for the bicycles. Elwood Hitchcock reported for Sherman Loucks on Mountain District that one new unit has registered and one more in process. He also reported most of the area was still "snowed in." Harry Allen reported that Western District was splitting three packs from one and that progress was being made on the finance campaign.

Walter Balk, council finance campaign chairman reported that 1958 campaign was keeping pace with 1957 but that greater results are needed to fulfill the budget of the council for 1958. He urged all scouters to carry the solicitation through to completion.

Brochures Available

Frank Bourke, camp chairman, noted that individual camp brochures were now available and that four troops under their own leadership are signed up. Development plans include troop site program shelters. Camp work parties will be set up as soon as weather permits.

Jerry Blair, scout executive stressed that the council could attain the new goals set. He said that membership and new units are looking healthy which means more boys will get the chance to be scouts. The Scout Executive showed display cards of the religious awards and pointed out this is an important phase of the program. Scouters and sponsors should know more about these awards in order for boys to gain the values involved.

Boy Scouts Plan Hike, Schedule Paper Drive

TILLSON — Members of the troop committee, Tillson Boy Scouts, met Tuesday evening, and plans were announced for a paper drive next month, with a tentative date of Saturday, April 26, scheduled for pick-up day. Residents of Tillson and Rosendale are urged to save newspapers for the Scout drive.

Scoutmaster Ray Boyle, BM1, USN, announced that he plans an overnight hike this weekend, weather permitting. Due to the snowstorm of last weekend, this hike was postponed.

Plans were completed for a board of review, and its specific duties. Scoutmaster Boyle said that there were six second-class scouts who are now ready to advance to first class ratings, and to face the board for examination.

During the past few months, Troop 17 has grown steadily, with over 40 boys now active as members. J. Richard Hampshire is the chairman of the troop committee.

Costly Bylaw

BRAINTREE, Mass. (AP) — Printing the 1957 town report cost this town nearly $500 extra —all because a bylaw prevented the job from going to the low bidder. Ironically, he got the job anyway. Before being elected selectman, Chester W. Nelson, operator of the Observer Press, invariably got the printing contract. This year his firm's bid was low at $9.50 a page. However, a town bylaw prohibits town officials from letting contracts to firms in which they have a financial interest. So the selectmen awarded the contract to the only other bidder, The Duxbury Clipper, at $11.50 a page. Whereupon, the Duxbury company sub-contracted the job to Observer Press and the town paid the higher figure.

Director Speaks At Welfare Fund Meeting Monday

BENJAMIN KAPLAN

Deputy Director of the Lachish Region of Agricultural Settlement Department of United Jewish Appeal, Benjamin Kaplan, will speak at a meeting Monday 8:30 p. m. at the Jewish Community Center, 265 Wall Street.

A film, "Second Change," also will be shown. Kaplan will speak following the film on behalf of the UJA $100,000,000 Rescue Fund and the regular 1958 UJA campaign.

Local chairman is Bernhardt S. Kramer. General solicitations chairmen are Miss Sadie Lutzin and Mrs. Harry Spiegel.

In the 1957 UJA campaign Kaplan visited the United States and proved a persuasive spokesman of the progress being made in developing Israel's waste lands and in building settlements for new immigrants. Kaplan is one of the planners and builders of the Lachish settlement, Israel's first regional development program, under which a huge and empty area was transformed into a district of farms, villages and factories.

In less than three years he and his group have established 23 farm villages and the town of Kiriat Gat. The villages of Lachish and Kiriat Gat are inhabited by immigrants from every section of the world. He played a decisive part in helping to solve the economic problems of thousands of families living in the district.

New settlements have sprung up in the once-barren Lachish and Ta'anach areas as the UJA-supported "ship-to-settlement" program for immediate absorption of immigrants has made spectacular progress. The Jewish Agency, of which Kaplan is an official, is in charge of the immigration, absorption and colonization of Jewish refugees in Israel. Funds for the Jewish Agency are supplied through the United Israel Appeal, a UJA constituent agency.

The United Jewish Appeal is conducting a two-fold, nationwide campaign in 1958. It seeks to raise a $100,000,000 Rescue Fund to provide transportation and initial resettlement aid for 80,000 Jewish men, women and children expected to leave Eastern Europe, North Africa and other areas of tension and uncertainty.

All interested members of the general community, as well as campaign workers, may attend the program.

Make Yourself Useful

MARTINSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — The town board in the nearby community of Mooresville figured their volunteer firemen might as well perform a civic service in their regular Saturday night practice drills. So they asked the fire fighters to use their hoses to wash down the streets while they were practicing.

Bathing Suits Will Feature Higher Necklines, Low Backs; Semi-Chemise Featured in Show

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It was a day of great disappointment in the life of Mr. Porky Hamm.

Mr. Hamm is rotund and a photographer. He's been taking pictures for the papers ever since he started photographing Mr. Harry Truman as county judge back in Missouri. In fact, he calls Mr. Truman "Harry" and Mr. Truman calls him "Porky."

Yesterday, Mr. Hamm drew the delightful assignment of taking pictures of Jantzen's 1958 line of swim suits with pretty girls in them. He took it like a man and went almost gleefully to do the job.

He had visions of an abbreviated bikini.

"Maybe," he confided to envious friends, "they'll be G-strings this year."

What Mr. Hamm saw was different. Most necklines are higher.

And backlines, man, they are lower and lower!

"Almost broke my heart," said Mr. Hamm. "There's a lot of fabric in those suits this year."

The swim suits were pretty. And the girls were pretty, too. Their names were Loretta, Jean, Nina, Henrietta, Virginia and Lynn. They went by so fast in the new fashion modelling fashion and Mr. Hamm didn't get their last names. But he got their pictures.

About the bathing suits:

There was a scoop-necked or covered-up front with a deep plunge back item and another with what the manufacturer called a brave bra.

But the eye catchers were the manufacturer's answer to the bikini — a red thing with a lot of front to it and with a lissome thing inside — and one called the depth charge—a deep V-back suit that was real cool.

The depth charge, said the manufacturer's agent, is real crazy in Florida. The answer to the bikini, however disappointing it was to Mr. Hamm because of the amount of cloth in it, is California's early season choice.

Dutchess Orchestra Presents Work by KHS Music Teacher

For its third concert of the 1957-58 season given Wednesday, March 26, at the Poughkeepsie High School, the Dutchess County Philharmonic Orchestra included in its program "Allegro for Orchestra" written by Mark Baczynsky.

Mr. Baczynsky, who is director of Kingston High School Orchestra and is on the teaching staff of the music department, is first violinist with the Dutchess Orchestra. His wife plays the French horn.

The "Allegro" includes a piano concerto, rondo for orchestra and various pieces for small ensemble. Written in the spring of 1954, the work is contemporary in style and is scored for standard symphony orchestra. Last night's performance marked its debut in this area.

Mr. Baczynsky's "Allegro" was very warmly received by the assemblage.

Another highlight of the program, which was conducted by Ole Windingstad, was the appearance of William Kroll, well known violinist. Mr. Kroll, who founded the Kroll String Quartet, and is co-head of the Chamber Music Department at Tanglewood, played the "Violin Concerto No. 5 in A major," by Wolfgang Mozart.

The program concluded with Wagner's Overture to "Rienzi."

The next concert for the Dutchess County Philharmonic Orchestra will be given on Wednesday, May 21, in the Poughkeepsie High School auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

Featured soloist will be Patricia Kay, Bard College student, who will play George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

The use of prepared and packaged foods in homes in France has risen 30 per cent in the last five years.

Britons Mull Over Romance Revival Of Peter, Princess

LONDON (AP) — Peter Townsend paid a business call within 50 yards of Princess Margaret's royal residence today while Britons speculated about a renewal of their romance.

The bronzed, 43-year-old Townsend, his features rigidly set, drove up to a commercial building hard by Clarence House and called for two hours at a rubber company's headquarters. He refused to tell newsmen whether he would see the princess again and said he was "getting fed up with the press."

Has Preoccupied Look

Margaret breakfasted in bed in her Clarence House suite. Presumably she pored over newspaper accounts of their reunion yesterday—their first since Townsend started his round-the-world tour 17 months ago.

At Delft, in Holland, Queen Elizabeth smiled cordially as she began the final day of a state visit. But newsmen with her said she occasionally wore a preoccupied look.

A British informant at Delft said yesterday's meeting was initiated by Townsend, but it has long been known that Margaret wanted to see him again. No person, least of all a rejected suitor, could have called at Clarence House without an invitation.

Courtiers here and at Delft emphasized repeatedly that, as they saw it, the reunion was simply a meeting between "old friends."

Paper Hints Revival

But only one newspaper came right out and said there might be a revival of the romance. The Daily Mail, which has been publishing Townsend's accounts of his just-ended trip around the world, said the handsome war hero might still be hoping to marry the Queen's sister.

The theme of most newspapers was "together again," with the Daily Mirror asking, "is it good-by—again?" Interest was so strong that The Times, which had ignored the romance almost until the princess put royal duty before love, published a prim 250-word account of the meeting on a secondary page.

Meet Three Hours

The 27-year-old princess and the commoner met for almost three hours at tea—time yesterday at Clarence House, the stately mansion near Buckingham Palace which Margaret shares with Queen Mother Elizabeth. Afterward the princess went to a movie premiere and Townsend spent the night in the apartment where he is staying.

The Daily Mail insisted that Townsend had never accepted as irrevocable Margaret's announcement Oct. 31, 1955, that she would not go against her church and family by marrying a divorced man.

How's That Again?

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—So you think "eating like a pig" means gorging yourself. Not so, says Dale Handlin, professor of animal husbandry at Clemson College. "Unlike most animals," he says, "the pig quits eating when he's had enough and goes off to lie down in the shade." "It might be a good idea if everyone ate like a pig," Handlin added.

Slim Spring Dresses Just 'Seam' Chemise

There will be lots of shapely dresses seen on Easter Sunday this year. From Harvey Berin's spring collection comes this gray boucle one-piece dress (left) with a two-piece look. Slender inserts of white linen at neck and sleeves look fresh and pretty. The blouson appears (center) in this version by Adele Simpson. Fabric is black-and-white check worsted. Standaway collar is tied with black grosgrain bow. From Ceil Chapman comes this shapely floral cotton print (right) in shades of pink, green, brown and beige. Dress has side-draped skirt and scooped neckline designed to show off jewelry.

Soft Suits Are Feminine

Here are three different ways to look on Easter Sunday. Costume (left) in creamy silk ottoman has jacket cut hip-length. Its fit is easy above the slim skirt. Collar is cut wide and standaway. This is by Mollie Parnis. Suit of imported oatmeal tweed (center) by Larry Aldrich has straight jacket with notched lapels and fringed pockets. It's worn with sleeveless white jersey overblouse. Elegant suit by Pauline Trigere (right) is in beechnut slubbed wool, has its own hand-printed silk blouse and matching jacket lining. Jacket is collarless, has bow trim at neckline and sleeves.

Teenagers Are Found Dead in Dunkirk Garage

DUNKIRK (AP)—A teen-age boy and girl, apparently victims of asphyxiation, were found dead in an automobile parked in a garage near Dunkirk today.

Chautauqua County Deputy Sheriff William Peters said the deaths apparently were accidental. Coroner Samuel A. Patti was investigating.

The victims were Ruth Ann Kinney, 16, and Walter Motto, 17, both students at Dunkirk High School.

Peters said the bodies were found by Motto's older brother, Harold, who went to look for the pair when they failed to return home. The garage where they were found, owned by Motto's father, George, is located near Route 5 about four miles from Dunkirk.

Peters said all the doors to the garage were closed, the car's ignition was on and there was gasoline in the tank, indicating the motor may have stalled after the pair became unconscious.

May Cost More

$2 Billion Moon Trip Agreeable To Space Solons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Space Committee members said today they are willing to go along with a two billion dollar expenditure to put a man on the moon and return him to earth.

President Eisenhower's Scientific Advisory Committee said in a report yesterday it probably will cost a great deal more than that amount.

Anderson Sees Savings

But Sen. Anderson (D-NM) said in a separate interview the country will get the cost back if it develops the nuclear propulsion he said will be necessary to reach the moon.

Anderson, a member of the Senate-House Atomic Committee, said "if we develop the nuclear propulsion necessary, we can save the two billion by reducing the cost of chemically propelled rockets.

"With nuclear propulsion, we will have a one-stage weapon that is far more accurate and dependable than any we have now."

Hickenlooper said he thinks any such development is going to take years and will cost a lot of money.

"I think we ought to spend whatever amount is reasonable, sensible and practical yearly in this field," he said.

Asks Reasonable Approach

Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) said the venture into outer space "ought to proceed in a reasonable way."

"If the report means that we are going to enter into a crash program, I think we could spend the two billion dollars to better advantage in bolstering our economy now," he said.

"But I assume what is meant is that this money would be spent over a period of years without putting too big an emphasis on what is just one segment of scientific development."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), chief congressional economy advocate, said he favors "doing what is reasonable to keep ahead of Russia." Byrd is a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee but not of the space group.

'War Cry' Sale Aids Army Budget

The article on the selling of the Easter copy of the Salvation Army "War Cry" may have been misunderstood, Capt. Foster Meitrott of the local Salvation Army said today.

"The War Cry is sold at a nominal price on the merit of its own value of the stories and reading material it contains. Oftimes our friends do give extra.

"The Community Chest has worked very close with the Army and has not cut our allocation but increased it for 1958.

"The income and selling of the War Cry is not extra income, but part of the estimated budget raised by the Army through meeting collections and selling of the weekly and seasonal War Crys."

Wawarsing Woman Treated, Released

Margaret Wilson, 17, of Wawarsing, who was involved in a two-car accident on Route 55 near Kerhonkson Wednesday morning, was treated at the Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, and released it was reported today by Ellenville state police.

Miss Wilson had complained of a chest injury.

Trooper Richard Rauch said dan, was proceeding west on Route 55 when her vehicle skidded in snow and struck a 1957 jeep truck operated by Walter Kwas, 42, of Elizabeth, N. J. The jeep was stopped in the eastbound lane.

Greenfield Park Hotel Robbery Report Is Hoax

Report of a burglary in progress at the Grand Mountain Hotel, Greenfield Park, early this morning proved to be a hoax, it was reported by Ellenville state police.

The man who reported the alleged burglary was arrested by Cpl. N. G. Lecakes and Trooper Mike Mahoney and paid a fine of $10 upon arraignment before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel of Kerhonkson.

At 4:35 a. m. today Howard Sheeley of Greenfield Park, telephoned the Ellenville trooper barracks to say that "a man named John" was at his home and had told him that a robbery was in progress at the hotel.

The patrol was dispatched to the hotel but found no one there.

Troopers then questioned the "man named John" and found that he was John W. Gray, 38, an employe at the Grand Mountain Hotel, originally from Winchester, Va.

Gray told them that two men and two women were involved in the burglary.

Proprietor of the hotel, Abe Steinhorn of Walden, was notified and checked the hotel and premises, reporting no evidence of a break and nothing missing.

Under questioning, Gray admitted that he had made up the story. He was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Leaders Predict Highway Bill to Pass by Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators go back to work on the big highway construction speed-up bill today with leaders predicting final passage of the anti-recession measure by tonight.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), chief sponsor of the bill, said he was confident it would be sent to conference with the House without any further major changes. A highway bill passed by the House is less broad in scope.

Rayburn Hopeful

House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) said in an interview the House probably would agree to the conference quickly. He expressed hope the bill could be sent to President Eisenhower before Congress starts an Easter recess April 3.

The bill would make available $1,800,000,000 more in federal-state funds for road-building this year than would be possible under the present program.

Over-all, it would make possible a highway program of about 5½ billion dollars this year. Much of this, however, would involve construction in later years. Gore has said the speed-up could produce as many as 520,000 new jobs.

Acts on Amendments

Before quitting late last night, the Senate acted on more than a dozen amendments. The hardest fight came on a section to provide federal payments to encourage state regulation of billboards on the 41,000-mile superhighway network now under construction.

This section was kept in the bill by a 47-41 vote, but only after some weakening amendments were adopted.

The principal one of these amendments provides that the billboard regulation should apply only on new right-of-way acquired after July 1, 1958. This would have the effect of eliminating about 25 per cent of the 41,000 miles from the regulation.

BIG BRUTE READIED—A huge Atlas, big brother of the U. S. surface-to-surface missile family, is readied for firing on its launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The 100-foot, 100-ton Atlas, America's first intercontinental ballistic missile, dwarfs the technicians working in foreground. Its three-unit rocket propulsion system blasts it to a point in space with the help of an inertial guidance system and the missile continues without power in a ballistic trajectory to its target, which could be as much as 5,500 miles away.

Ike Puts Curb On Inflow of Foreign Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today cut down allotments under the government's voluntary crude oil import program and barred non-complying companies from getting government oil contracts.

Eisenhower issued an executive order and approved a Cabinet committee report applying further curbs effective April 1 on the inflow of foreign oil, as a national security measure.

His action means that petroleum companies which now import crude must reduce their foreign purchases by almost 15 per cent, to reduce the nation's total intake and to let newcomers enter the oil-importing field.

The order does not alter the voluntary quotas previously established for the Pacific Coast states, Arizona and Nevada. But from the Rocky Mountains east, total imports will be reduced from the 771,400 barrels-a-day average now in effect to 713,000 barrels daily.

Girl, 7, Succumbs, Fifth Crash Victim

CORNING (AP)—The fifth victim of an automobile crash Saturday died today in Corning Hospital. She was Linda Cloran, 7, whose mother and two brothers also were killed.

Police said three cars collided, two of them head-on, on Route 15 near this Steuben County city.

Killed in the crash were Mrs. Dorothy Cloran, 45, a widow of Hornell; her sons, Richard, 16, and William, 13; and Henry Divens, 43, a factory worker of nearby Campbell.

The Divens and Cloran cars hit head-on, police said, and the third car, driven by Edmund Bartlett, 22, of Wellsboro, Pa., crashed into the wreckage. Bartlett was in fair condition today.

Collision Is Fatal

CANANDAIGUA (AP)—Mrs. Virginia Englehart, 25, of Shortsville, was killed today when the car she was driving and a second automobile collided.

Harriman Signs Bill Cutting Work Hours

ALBANY (AP) — Gov. Harriman signed a bill yesterday implementing reduction of the work week for the state's institutional employes from 42 to 40 hours.

Harriman had provided about four million dollars in his 1958-59 budget to carry out the program. The Legislature approved the funds when it passed the budget March 6.

The implementation bill was sponsored by Sen. Fred J. Rath, Utica Republican.

He added:

"We can all take satisfaction in the knowledge that state employes will not enjoy the same work week as other working men and women."

Special Series on Consolidation

Kingston's Role Under Enlarged School Plan

(Editor's Note: Today's article deals with the financial aspects of the consolidation school plan. Voters of Kingston will ballot on the consolidation question next Wednesday, April 2, in various city polling places.)

* * *

The Kingston Civic Association has made a point that "under Consolidation the increase of $191,000 over the present assessment rates will cost the taxpayer of the city of Kingston an additional $80,000 per year."

It is true that the increase of $1.91 over the present tax rate would increase the cost to all the taxpayers of Kingston in the amount of $77,661.77. Your Board of Education readily acknowledges this. However, we should pursue the matter deeper for our friends in the Kingston Civic Association would have us believe that this is the end of the statement,—that our choice is between the present tax rate of $28.96 and the average tax rate for the first six years of consolidation of $30.87. This is not true and those who would have us so believe are proposing that the Kingston taxpayer vote upon himself an appalling alternative.

One Alternative

What is that alternative? It is to declare that, henceforth and forevermore, Kingston will educate only its own resident students and shed all responsibility for, and disclaim all benefit, present and future, from the area encompassing our city.

What will this mean financially? The good members of the Kingston Civic Association do not say too much about this for to do so they would have to take the unfamiliar position of endorsing the proposed consolidation rather than suggesting that Kingston commit educational and economic suicide.

The City School District receives, on behalf of its rural students, State aid in the amount of $575,000 per year. The City School District receives, on behalf of its rural students, tuition in the amount of $215,000 per year. This is $790,000 no matter how you add it up.

Maintenance Big Factor

But, you say, couldn't we save some with 1,400 fewer students. Obviously we must grant this point. But what is one of our largest expenses — the maintenance and repair of our school buildings, an ever increasing cost due to the antiquity of many of our buildings. Could we close any school buildings and reduce expenses? Let's take another long hard look at our 1,400 non-resident youngsters. Of these 1,400 boys and girls—900 are in the Kingston High School. Certainly no one would suggest that we shut down the Kingston High School because our enrollment has dropped from 2,100 to 1,200 yet to heat and maintain the building would cost as much for 1,200 as for 2,100.

Of our 1,400 non-resident boys and girls, 300 are in the junior high school. Certainly not even our friends in the Kingston Civic Association would advocate that we drop 7th and 8th grade education from our schools because we have only 520 rather than 820 students. We would have to do just that in order to close the Myron J. Michael School. It is true that 7th grades would no longer be required in the Washington School but we, quite honestly, must admit that the Washington School could still not be closed to reduce maintenance and upkeep.

Where are the other 200 non-residents? They are scattered through eight elementary schools or an average of 25 per school. It must be clear that 25 students from any one school will not permit the closing and sale of that school.

Some Costs Remain

We could save on teachers salaries. Some 45 to 50 teachers fewer would be needed. This plus textbooks and supplies amounts to a maximum savings of $300,000. Now in our book $300,000 from $790,000 leaves a balance to be borne by the Kingston taxpayer of $490,000. That represents a tax increase of $12.05 per M which the Civic Association is advocating that the people vote upon themselves.

Most assuredly we must admit that 1400 students will not, can not, walk out of our schools today—or tomorrow. Where would they go It would take a minimum of 2 years for a central high school to exist outside the city. It has been said, and acknowledged by the Board of Education, that in 5 to 7 years resident student population increase will fill this 1,400 student gap.

But the thing not considered here is that even the loss of the $215,000 in tuition alone would be a tax increase of $5.29 per M which would be with us ad infinitum.

The Civil Association will tell you that under consolidation we won't get that tuition and again this is true—in a sense, but in a sense only. Our rural friends are now raising that $215,000 as taxes and state aid and paying it to Kingston as tuition. They would continue to raise it, at an ever increased rate, and it would come to the Consolidation District—perhaps we wouldn't call it tuition but a dollar's a dollar whatever you call it.

Our Consolidation Figure

The Kingston Civic Association says to vote no so we won't have a $1.91 tax increase. What they are actually urging the city to do is to shut its eyes and blindly vote upon itself a tax rate increase that will start at $41.05 and decrease slowly over 3 or 4 years until it stablizes at about $34.25—and there it will remain —$5.29 higher than the present rate and $3.38 higher than the proposed Consolidation would require.

One can only conclude that the Civic Association advocates that the city taxpayer spend from $5.29 to $12.05 to save $1.91. Few would call this economy.

To Prevent Marks

To prevent marks of the cake rack when cooling your loaf cake, invert the cake onto the rack and then immediately turn it back again (with another rack) so it is topside up.

It's too bad those endearing young charms aren't a little more enduring.

This film has merited the Golden Reel Award as the best Religious Film of the Year.

The story centers about the friendship between a white and a Negro boy, which began at a Christian youth camp, and how difficulties arise when the white boy brings his new friend into his church and social situation. "It's a message we all need to hear and see, for we all wear certain masks which ought to be broken," comments the Rev. Mr. Porter. The service begins 7:30 p. m.

Good Friday Service

Good Friday the New Paltz Methodist Church will be open between the hours of 12 noon and 3 p. m. with a special invitation to come in "and mourn with me awhile . . ." Futures Trading Not Blamed for Big Price Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commodity Exchange Authority administration says futures trading hasn't been responsible for wide price fluctuations in onions.

He said the CEA also hasn't found that futures trading has affected the average price received by farmers over a marketing season.

"It would appear, however, that the market has been affected from time to time by excessive speculation," he said, "and has not been utilized in such manner and to such extent as to make it a factor of major importance in the distribution of onions."

The Agriculture Department has taken no definite position on the bills before Congress to ban such futures trading in onions. It has said that if enacted the legislation would not significantly affect the marketing or distribution of onions. The House already has passed such a bill.

John C. Datt, assistant legislative director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the committee at the conclusion of a five-day hearing yesterday that the bureau favored abolition of futures trading in onions.

Special Series on Consolidation

Kingston's Role Under Enlarged School Plan

(Editor's Note: Today's article deals with the financial aspects of the consolidation school plan. Voters of Kingston will balot on the consolidation question next Wednesday, April 2, in various city polling places.)

* * *

The Kingston Civic Association has made a point that "under Consolidation the increase of $191,000 over the present assessment rates will cost the taxpayer of the city of Kingston an additional $80,000 per year."

It is true that the increase of $1.91 over the present tax rate would increase the cost to all the taxpayers of Kingston in the amount of $77,661.77. Your Board of Education readily acknowledges this. However, we should pursue the matter deeper for our friends in the Kingston Civic Association would have us believe that this is the end of the statement,—that our choice is between the present tax rate of $28.96 and the average tax rate for the first six years of consolidation of $30.87. This is not true and those who would have us so believe are proposing that the Kingston taxpayer vote upon himself an appalling alternative.

One Alternative

What is that alternative? It is to declare that, henceforth and forevermore, Kingston will educate only its own resident students and shed all responsibility for, and disclaim all benefit, present and future, from the area encompassing our city.

What will this mean financially? The good members of the Kingston Civic Association do not say too much about this for to do so they would have to take the unfamiliar position of endorsing the proposed consolidation rather than suggesting that Kingston commit educational and economic suicide.

The City School District receives, on behalf of its rural students, State aid in the amount of $575,000 per year. The City School District receives, on behalf of its rural students, tuition in the amount of $215,000 per year. This is $790,000 no matter how you add it up.

Maintenance Big Factor

But, you say, couldn't we save some with 1,400 fewer students. Obviously we must grant this point. But what is one of our largest expenses — the maintenance and repair of our school buldings, an ever increasing cost due to the antiquity of many of our buildings. Could we close any school buildings and reduce expenses? Let's take another long hard look at our 1,400 non-resident youngsters. Of these 1,400 boys and girls—900 are in the Kingston High School. Certainly no one would suggest that we shut down the Kingston High School, because our enrollment has dropped from 2,100 to 1,200 yet to heat and maintain the building would cost as much for 1,200 as for 2,100.

Of our 1,400 non-resident boys and girls, 300 are in the junior high school. Certainly not even our friends in the Kingston Civic Association would advocate that we drop 7th and 8th grade education from our schools because we have only 520 rather than 820 students. We would have to do just that in order to close the Myron J. Michael School. It is true that 7th grades would no longer be required in the Washington School but we, quite honestly, must admit that the Washington School could still not be closed to reduce maintenance and upkeep.

Where are the other 200 non-residents? They are scattered through eight elementary schools or an average of 25 per school. It must be clear that 25 students from any one school will not permit the closing and sale of that school.

Some Costs Remain

Even the Civic Association must admit that consolidation or isolation, our maintenance costs must remain.

We could save on teachers salaries. Some 45 to 50 teachers fewer would be needed. This plus textbooks and supplies amounts to a maximum savings of $300,000. Now in our book $300,000 from $790,000 leaves a balance to be borne by the Kingston taxpayer of $490,000. That represents a tax increase of $12.05 per M which the Civic Association is advocating that the people vote upon themselves.

Most assuredly we must admit that 1400 students will not, can not, walk out of our schools today—or tomorrow. Where would they go It would take a minimum of 2 years for a central high school to exist outside the city. It has been said, and acknowledged by the Board of Education, that in 5 to 7 years resident student population increase will fill this 1,400 student gap.

But the thing not considered here is that even the loss of the $215,000 in tuition alone would be a tax increase of $5.29 per M which would be with us ad infinitum.

The Civil Association will tell you that under consolidation we won't get that tuition and again this is true—in a sense, but in a sense only. Our rural friends are now raising that $215,000 as taxes and state aid and paying it to Kingston as tuition. They would continue to raise it, at an ever increased rate, and it would come to the Consolidation District—perhaps we wouldn't call it tuition but a dollar's a dollar whatever you call it.

Our Consolidation Figure

The Kingston Civic Association says to vote no so we won't have a $1.91 tax increase. What they are actually urging the city to do is to shut its eyes and blindly vote upon itself a tax rate increase that will start at $41.05 and decrease slowly over 3 or 4 years until it stablizes at about $34.25—and there it will remain —$5.29 higher than the present rate and $3.38 higher than the proposed Consolidation would require.

One can only conclude that the Civic Association advocates that the city taxpayer spend from $5.29 to $12.05 to save $1.91. Few would call this economy.

The theme of these services and the title of the Rev. Willet Porter's sermon is "The King of Love Rides In." Following the early morning New Paltz service, which will be conducted by Peter Jacobs, local preacher, is the 9:15 a. m. Lloyd Church service; 11 a. m. New Paltz morning worship service, and the 2 p. m. service in Plutarch Church. These latter services will be in charge of the Rev. Mr. Porter with the organist being Miss Mary Lou Dunham, Mrs. C. 'Broken Mask' Film

Sunday evening Lenten film services conclude this week in the New Paltz Methodist Church with the showing of the National Council of Churches' film on the theme of Christ, the Church, and Race, entitled "Broken Mask." This film has merited the Golden Reel Award as the Best Religious Film of the Year.

The story centers about the friendship between a white and a Negro boy, which began at a Christian youth camp, and how difficulties arise when the white boy brings his new friend into his church and social situation. "It's a message we all need to hear and see, for we all wear certain masks which ought to be broken," comments the Rev. Mr. Porter. The service begins 7:30 p. m.

Good Friday Service

Good Friday the New Paltz Methodist Church will be open between the hours of 12 noon and 3 p. m. with a special invitation to come in "and mourn with me awhile . . ." These are the hours traditionally recognized as the time of Christ's suffering on the Cross. For this period of remembrance worshippers are invited to come when they can and leave when they must. Devotional material will be on the literature table for those who may desire it. The "crown of thorns" will be upon the altar and DuBois' "Seven Last Words" will provide the music for meditation. The invitation is extended by the church to all in the larger New Paltz community to share in this period of devotion.

Sunrise Service

The traditional sunrise service Easter Sunday for members and friends of the New Paltz Methodist Parish will be held on the Minnewaska Trail, overlooking the Wallkill Valley, beginning at 7 a. m. Cars will meet at the New Paltz Church, Main and Grove Streets, at 6:45 a. m.

Baptism on Sunday

Palm Sunday, the Sacrament of Baptism will be administered by the pastor at the 11 a. m. morning worship service of the New Paltz Methodist Church. Easter Sunday new members will be received into the fellowship of the three churches of the parish.

Rummage Sale

The annual spring rummage sale sponsored by the New Paltz Methodist Church will be held on Friday and Saturday, April 11 and 12, in the American Legion Hall, Church Street. Donations of clothing, furniture, household utensils, books, etc., are now being received at the church or parsonage.

Spring Dinner

A ham dinner is scheduled at the Methodist Church Social Hall Wednesday, May 14, with servings 5:30 and 7 p. m.

The costume with a suit look appears for spring, 1958, in this beige-and-white worsted version by Branell. Slim skirt is attached to silk chiffon shirt. Jacket is lined in beige.

Futures Trading Not Blamed for Big Price Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commodity Exchange Authority administration says futures trading hasn't been responsible for wide price fluctuations in onions.

Rodger R. Kauffman told the Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday such fluctuations have historically characterized the onion market.

He said the CEA also hasn't found that futures trading has affected the average price received by farmers over a marketing season.

"It would appear, however, that the market has been affected from time to time by excessive speculation," he said, "and has not been utilized in such manner and to such extent as to make it a factor of major importance in the distribution of onions."

The Agriculture Department has taken no definite position on the bills before Congress to ban such futures trading in onions. It has said that if enacted the legislation would not significantly affect the marketing or distribution of onions. The House already has passed such a bill.

John C. Datt, assistant legislative director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the committee at the conclusion of a five-day hearing yesterday that the bureau favored abolition of futures trading in onions.

The state handicap and scratch bowling tournaments will get underway April 19, John Ferrao, president of the Hudson Valley Bowling Proprietors Assn., said today.

The two divisions will be rolled on four succesive weekends beginning April 19. The state finals will be staged in Ferraro's Bowlerama on June 19.

In both events, keglers will roll a total of 16 games over a two-week period. Qualifiers will then clash in head-to-head matches at the Bowlerama for more than $5,000 in cash awards, including a $250 expense trip to the Nationals next year.

(Handicap)

April 19-20 — Empire Recreation, Newburgh.

Kaline Is Cinch For Hall of Fame, Tighe Predicts

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Manager Jack Tighe says outfielder Al Kaline is "a cinch to be a Hall of Famer" if he avoids serious injuries.

Only 23 now, Kaline is regarded as one of baseball's best all-around outfielders.

"There are four things you look for in a ball player," said the Detroit Tiger manager. He listed them as fielding, hitting, running and throwing.

"Kaline can do all four, and do them a lot better than the average player," said Tighe. "There's not a thing he doesn't do well—and he's bound to get better. He's far from his peak."

If a player can do two of those things well, Tighe said, he can be a good player. Doing three of them well makes him very good—"and if he does all four well, like Al, well then, he's tremendous."

Kaline needs only maturity at the plate and a better knowledge of the strike zone to reach his potential, said Tighe.

Elected Captain

To the complete surprise of absolutely no one, Tony's Pizzeria captured the seven-team round-robin YMCA playoffs last night.

Fred Orr and Hyler Van Wagenen paced the losers with 24 and 23 apiece.

The outcome was never too much in doubt. Tony's jumped to a five-point spread in the first period and stayed in front, enjoying their biggest scoring spree in the third period.

Back's held them pretty well in check during the last period but the explosives in the first three periods made the attempt to contain Tony's pretty futile.

No June Rematch: Sugar

Carmen Begins Eye Treatment Today

CHICAGO (AP) — Treatment of Carmen Basilio's swollen eye was to get underway today in Wesley Memorial Hospital, where the dethroned champion's wife, Kay, spent the night near his bedside.

Basilio fought the last 10 rounds against Sugar Ray Robinson in the Chicago Stadium Tuesday night with his left eye completely closed. It ballooned into a mean, discolored thing by the end of the fight, which Robinson won on a split 15 round verdict to regain the middleweight title for the fourth time.

Specialist Called

A Chicago eye specialist, Dr. A. Perritt, was called in for examination of the eye yesterday at the insistence of Basilio's wife. The specialist suggested that the former champion be taken to the hospital, and after an examination, this statement was issued:

"The eye itself is not involved. There has been a massive hemorrhage around the eye and we want Mr. Basilio to be hospitalized several days for observation and treatment."

Robinson, saying that he "ached in every bone," parried the question of a third meeting with Basilio, who won the 160-pound title from him in New York last September.

Robinson said he plans to go to Hollywood in May to test for several movie roles, particular one in which he would be cast as a toreador in a bull fighting script.

Will Consider Basilio

His attorney, Martin J. Macket, said Robinson had told him he had no plans to retire from the ring. He said the champion is against a June rematch, will consider one in September and will give thought to meeting Basilio again.

The International Boxing Club gave an incomplete financial accounting of Tuesday night's fight, showing that each fighter on a 30-30 split would receive in excess of $256,469.

This included for each $81,869 from the net gate, $9,000 from domestic radio and $600 from foreign radio, an estimated $120,000 from closed circuit TV and an estimated $45,000 from movies to be shown later.

Gonzales Leads Hoad In Pro Tennis Series

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales was ahead of Lew Hoad again today in their professional tennis series after beating the Australian here 6-3, 6-1. Gonzales' victory last night gave him a 23-22 edge in the series.

The doubles team of Gonzales and Pancho Segura beat Hoad and Tony Trabert 9-7, 6-1. Segura defeated Trabert in singles 8-5.

DeCarlo Reaches Gloves Finals

SCHENECTADY (AP)—Buddy De Carlo of Plattsburgh will be in the finals tonight in the Adirondack District AAU Golden Gloves Tournament after his victory over Willie Payne of Albany.

In a 3-round semi-final bout of the 140-pound open division last night, De Carlo decisioned Payne, 18-year-old defending district champion.

The Lift From Sixth?

Lemon, Score Boost Tribe's First Division Ambitions

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Bob Lemon and Herb Score, two of baseball's great pitchers, won only eight games between them last season, and the Cleveland Indians won only 76 games for their disappointing sixth place finish.

Score went out of action after two wins when he was hit and almost blinded by a line drive, and Lemon had his worst season in many a year because of an ailing elbow.

Apparently Healthy

Now both are back with the Tribe, apparently in good health, which is why the club's new manager, Bobby Bragan, says:

"We won 76 virtually without them so it figures we'll win more."

Lemon had the arm operated on and feels it will be all right.

"We'll take it easy with him for some time," said the admiring Bragan. "He thinks it'll come around and if any player wants to pitch, it's Lemon. He's a real ball player."

Second Base Problem

Bragan says his gravest problem is at second base.

Bobby feels he has big power in Minnie Minoso, Gene Woodling, Vic Wertz and Mickey Vernon.

He likes his catching corps, headed by Russ Nixon, and the pitching could rival the years when Cleveland boasted no less than four 20-game winners.

"But we have to make that double play. This hurt Cleveland last year."

Bragan decided to shift veteran Bobby Avila to third and let some of the newcomers try second. Moran got first crack and proved a successful surprise to everyone in camp, with the possible exception of Bragan.

Played in Cuba

Eyebrows were lifted at Billy's batting average last year in the Pacific Coast League—.211.

But, Moran, with some schooling from Eddie Stanky and old-timer Tris Speaker, hit like a demon in the opening games. Bragan is hopeful that maybe the .211 can be boosted 20 or 30 points, at least.

As of now, the Tribe infield consists of Wertz at first, Chico Carrasquel at short, Avila at third and rookie Moran helping make the double play at second.

The outfield talent, strengthened by the Minoso acquisition, includes Woodling, Rocky Colavito, Roger Maris and Dick Williams.

Best bets to help Score and Lemon are big Mike Garcia, Ray Narleski, Don Mossi, Cal McLish and Dick Tomanek, among the regulars.

This has been the spring season for close-lipped baseball managers . . . with almost every skipper in the Florida training camps putting a zipper on his kisser . . . even Jack Tighe, the effervescent Tiger pilot, clamming up with the confession: "I talked too much last year." . . .

Now that Pancho Gonzales is back on the winning beam, aren't he and promoter Jake Kramer snarling at each other again? . . . The Panch' was lots more docile when Lew Hoad was pinning his ears back. . . .

* * *

The name on everyone's lips in professional golf is Ken Venturi . . . the young man universally picked to take up the Snead-Hogan scepter since the Littlers and Souchaks petered out as potential glamour boys . . . yet there was a time in his kidhood that Venturi was more interested in becoming another Luisetti of the hardwood around San Francisco—especially after tallying up the first round of golf he ever shot, a glorious 172! . . .

Classicists call Ken's game faultless . . . his magnetism will be the same as Byron Nelson's—perfection. . . . "If a year of practice," he said, "will take a stroke off my game, it's a rich reward." . . .

* * *

Ken Venturi

Biggest handicap faced by Nipponese golfers Torakichi Nakamura and Koichi Ono in their invasion of this country is that they'll have to use the American big ball . . . as against the little pellet with which they whipped Snead and Demaret by nine strokes in the Canada Cup matches in Japan last year. . . . Torakichi (they started calling him Pete in his caddie days) has another complaint Occidental hospitality. . . . "I gain four pounds. Pete now weighs 135." . . .

Dick Mayer is one of the several United States Open champions who didn't come out of caddie yards. . . . Mayer was a socialite member of the Innis Arden in Greenwich and winged Foot. . . . Jerry Travers, Bobby Jones and Lawson Little were distinguished amateur titlists first. . . . Sam Parks and Craig Wood did not carry clubs and Dr. Cary Middlecoff forsook dentistry. . . .

* * *

If Bobby Shantz's dad had bothered to jot down a telephone message, the little left-hander would still be pitching in his home environs of Philadelphia, instead of collecting World Series checks from the Yanks . . . this was when he was still a sandlotter and every scout shied away because of his size. . . . Even Jocko Conlon, bird-dogging for the Phillies, wasn't hot on the kid but finally called one evening . . . the old man picked up the phone. . . . "Bobby?" . . . "He's not home." . . . "Tell him Jocko called. We'll pay him $500 to sign." . . . But somehow the message wan't relayed, and Bobby signed with the Athletics—for nothing.

Tip to the San Francisco Forty-Niners: R. C. Owens, their kangaroo-leaping slot back, is thinking of deserting the gridiron for a whirl with the Harlem Globetrotters . . . he was originally a College of Idaho cage ace. . . .

* * *

The Minneapolis Lakers will make Elgin Baylor their No. 1 draft choice, despite his remaining year of eligibility . . . feeling family obligations will make hm go for the dough . . . but they'll likely lose Frank Selvy back to St. Louis, since amateurs Dick Boushka and Terry Rand, pawns in the original deal, have shunned the Hawks.

Inside on why Dudley Moore didn't get the cage job at New York University (although he wanted it, and the Violet athletic office wanted him): school prexy balked because of rumors about too many Duquesne freshmen flunking out after being recruited . . . so he went to La Salle at the same price. . . .

Between you'n'me, you can chalk off Neil Johnston as a Philadelphia Warrior if Eddie Gottlieb can get anything (players or money) in exchange . . . no longer fits in their system. . . .

Erdelatz Wand To Switch Navy Grid Positions

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Coach Eddie Erdelatz, who waves a wand and transforms football players into positions some of them never dreamed they'd be playing, is up to old tricks again this spring.

So far he's converted six—from backs into linemen or between positions in the backfield and line—as Navy seeks to rebuild its losses of 17 lettermen from last year's Cotton Bowl championship team.

If the formula runs true there'll be other changes before the spring and fall training are over. And if past performances hold, Navy will be a stronger team for it.

One of the earlier conversions was Bob Reifsnyder, the 225-pound tackle who came to the academy as a fullback from Rockville Centre, N. Y. He's been playing tackle or center since his plebe year. For his work in the Navy line last year he won the Maxwell Trophy as the "Outstanding College Football Player of the Year" along with a flock of other post-season honors.

One of the more recent switches is of a similar type. Erdelatz and his assistants took a long, hard look at sophomore fullback Jim Dunn of Rutledge, Pa., this spring and decided his 200 pounds could be put to much better use at center.

Shoring up gaps in the first 11 days of practice this spring, Erdelatz has moved a former fullback and a former quarterback to center behind Moncilovich, a former guard to tackle, a former tackle to guard, a former quarterback to halfback and a former fullback to halfback.

Kalloch Considers Two College Coaching Jobs

A coach at Poughkeepsie High School since 1922 and director of physical education in the public school system there, Sam J. Kalloch may be on his way to a college coaching job, it was learned today.

The venerable gray-thatched and rotund mentor has announced he is "weighing" coaching offers from two colleges—one in New England and the other in the Southeastern conference.

Confirms Offers

He declined to name the colleges which made the offers but indicated the Southeastern conference job would be coaching football and basketball. The New England position, which he said, "looks good to me" would include coaching and director of athletics.

Questioned on whether he would leave Poughkeepsie after 36 years, Kalloch said both offers would include "more money than I'm getting here."

Family Is Consideration

He indicated the decision would be shared by his wife and his three daughters would be considered before he accepted either offer.

"I'll have to make up my mind by the end of the week," Kalloch said.

It was reported his base salary in Poughkeepsie is approximately $9,000 for director of physical education, playground director and disciplinarian at the high school. In addition, it was reported, he receives $500 for football, $500 for basketball and $300 for baseball coaching.

Kalloch said he wanted to determine what the college offers include in the way of tenure, "how much more money I would get and other things like living quarters before I jump."

The veteran coach said he had told them (the colleges) that he was getting too old to be jumping around to new jobs.

"But they told me they knew of my excellent record here (Poughkeepsie) and added I should be good for 190 years yet . . . I hope they are right."

Bob Feller Urges Unrestricted Player Draft

40-Player Limit Would Give Needed Balance

EDITORS: This is the second of three exclusive dispatches written for NEA Service and The Freeman in which Bob Feller, the greatest pitcher of his day, digs into the changing baseball picture. Conducting clinics throughout the nation, Feller perhaps got closer to the core of baseball than anybody before him. The all-time strikeout king is president of the Major League Baseball Players Association and generally accepted as the spokesman for those who play the game. He will broadcast Game of Day over Mutual Radio Network.

By BOB FELLER
As told to Harry Gayson

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (NEA) — Organized baseball is sadly in need of realignment.

That sounds like a cliche on the subject of the Giants and Dodgers leaving New York, but there is nothing hackey about the kind of realignment I'm thinking about.

The ideal arrangement would be balanced leagues. But no antidote has yet been found for the Yankees, who have dominated the American League for 37 years.

I have heard it said that there is considerably more competition in the National League, yet five clubs were beaten by from 15 to 33 games last season. And the Braves appear ready to pick up where the Dodgers left off after winning 6 of 10 pennants.

I know all about the futility of pitching against a vastly superior club. For years the Cleveland pitcher who beat the Yankees had more than his hands full.

* * *

An unrestricted draft limiting the parent club to 40 players would come close to putting all clubs on an even basis. For now, the new four-year draft is a long step in the right direction. This means that any player who has been in the higher minors for four years can be taken for $25,000 if not recalled. Lower the price to $15,000 and this measure would have even sharper teeth.

The Yankees, for example, will have to send out more than 20 players who are likely to be grabbed in the new draft deal.

Deserving players who previously could be controlled in the minors for seven years will get earlier opportunities in the majors.

Frank Lane, now general manager of the Indians, wanted three first-year men included in the new draft set-up. The idea was to put an end to the absurd bonus business.

I am not criticizing any young man for accepting all he can get for signing, but this high bidding is another indication of the shortage of talent brought about by the lack of early development. The money thrown out as bonuses would support the maximum number of minor leagues for years. Paying fat bonuses to untried youngsters is a poor way to approach the problem of supply and demand.

Another thing that would help balance the leagues is to prohibit sales and trades once the season starts. This would prevent the Yankees, for example, from acquiring, say a Johnny Sain, to give them the required amount of additional pitching to win a couple more pennants. Or a runs-batted-in man like Harry Simpson.

* * *

After what happened in Milwaukee, Baltimore and Kansas City, the larger Double A and Triple A cities no longer will stand for being classed as minor league.

After six years of being afraid to assert himself, Ford Frick has come up with an excellent suggestion for stopping the disintegration of the minors. Perhaps that new seven-year contract voted the commissioner last summer finally will stir up some sorely required decisions in the office of the high command.

Frick urges the adoption of the professional football plan with two 12-club leagues in two divisions playing interlocking schedules. The division champions would play off, the winners going into the World Series. My own suggestion would be four six-club leagues.

* * *

This would mean 24 instead of 16 big league clubs. It would take care of metropolitan cities such as Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Minneapolis and St. Paul, Dallas, Houston and Denver. There would be 200 more big league jobs, giving young players added incentive. There would be eight more major league clubs to subsidize franchises in the minors.

Talk of there not being enough good players is ridiculous. The standard of baseball is variable. The average fan doesn't look at a ballplayer through the eyes of a trained observer. All he asks is exciting competition.

And, besides, if the major leagues wake up they will find more talent than ever before.

Cup Play Resumes Tonight in NHL

By The Associated Press

Competition for the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup resumes tonight, with the home teams each holding a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven semifinal series.

In Tuesday night's opening games, the Canadiens trounced Detroit 8-1 and the Rangers trimmed Boston 5-3.

But, It's Not Wrigley Field

Cubs Pick Up 60 Runs, 15 HRs In 5 Arizona Exhibition Games

The Associated Press

No, this is not the record of the 1957 Yankees, the 1947 New York Giants or the 1956 Cincinnati Redlegs.

Managers Hear This!

And if rival managers are sitting up to take notice, who can blame them? Bobby Bragan of Cleveland and Bill Rigney of the Giants have been forced to. Their teams have been taking the shellackings in spring exhibitions.

The Cubs, who have been making a Mesa all recent Arizona opposition, did it again yesterday. They hammered five homers in trouncing the Indians 10-5.

Dale Long, Elvin Tappe, John Goryl, Walt Moryn and Jim Bolger did the home run hitting while Ernie Banks drove in two runs with a single. Long and Banks each have had four circuit blows in the last five games in which the Cubs have lifted their spring mark to 10-7.

Klu Returns

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished in a tie with the Cubs for seventh place last year, were heartened by the return to action of first baseman Ted Kluszewski. Big Klu, out with a back injury most of last season at Cincinnati, made his first appearance in the lineup and had one single in three trips as the Bucs trimmed Los Angeles 6-4.

Bob Friend went the distance for the Pirates, settling down after a shaky start. The winners got all their runs off lefty Johnny Podres.

Another route-going performance was turned in by Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees. Ford yielded only four hits as the Yank "B" team beat Richmond of the International League 8-3.

Bad Defense Play

The Yankees' regular squad was not so fortunate. Sloppy defensive play enabled the St. Louis Cards to pick up three runs in the sixth inning and three more in the eighth for a 7-3 victory over the American League champs. Stan Musial produced an important triple in the sixth.

Veterans Willie Mays, Joe Adcock and Billy Goodman were vital factors in other exhibition games.

Mays and rookie Orlando Cepeda each hit two home runs as the San Francisco Giants beat Baltimore 7-5; Adcock led an 11-hit attack with a pair of four-baggers in Milwaukee's 10-2 triumph over Philadelphia; and Goodman drove in six runs with two doubles and a single that helped the Chicago White Sox trounce the Kansas City A's 14-1.

The Boston Red Sox sent the Detroit Tigers down to their sixth setback in their last seven games. The Sox won 4-2, breaking a 2-all tie in the seventh on a double by Jim Piersall and a three-bagger by Billy Consolo.

Michigan, Yale Favored in NCAA Swimming Meet

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan and Yale were heavy favorites to capture most of the prizes in the 35th annual NCAA Swimming Meet that opened today.

Coaches of the 59 teams assembled here generally were agreed that host Michigan would stroke to its second straight national title.

"I figure us for fourth of fifth," Kiphuth said at poolside while watching his team work out.

"Depth has been our problem this year. We have three good swimmers. Michigan has eight or nine. If I use our men in the individual events, it takes the guts out of the relay teams."

Only three individual titlists from the 1957 championships were entered this year. But among them they won six of the 14 individual events.

Eli Tim Jecko became the sixth swimmer in history to win a triple crown. Two of his triumphs set NCAA meet records. Dick Kimball of Michigan won both the one-meter and three-meter diving events. Cy Hopkins of Michigan scored a record-breaking victory in the 200-yard breast stroke.

Saugerties AC Wins, 44-22, Beats Kendalls in Over 30

Bill Straub, the Sawyer basketball coach, is a prolific scorer when he gets off the bench and into uniform himself—the reason the Saugerties AC rolls on in the Over 30 League playoffs.

The Saugerties mentor canned 17 points last night as his club upended Kendall Oil, 44 to 22, in the best two-out-of-three playoffs.

Saugerties went to a seven-point bulge in the first period and were held down only in the last quarter.

Hershey Bears, Springfield Lead Calder Cup

By The Associated Press

The regular season champion Hershey Bears and the fourth-place Springfield Indians held 1-0 leads in Calder Cup semifinal playoffs today following come-from-behind victories in the opening games.

Hershey turned back Providence 3-1 and Springfield edged Cleveland 2-1 last night.

Providence, which finished in third place in regular American Hockey League campaign, moved in front of Hershey on a second period goal by Jimmy Bartlett. But Arnie Kullman and Obie O'Brien scored later in the same session and put the Bears in front to stay. Bob Solinger added an insurance marker in the final period.

Cleveland also broke in front of Springfield as Cal Stearns scored midway in the first period. Cal Gardner evened matters for the Indians at 15:47 of the same period and Jack Caffery's marker early in the third provided Springfield's winning margin.

The second games in both best-of-seven series will be played in Hershey and Cleveland Saturday night.

Warriors Have Desperate Feeling

Must Win Four Straight To Overcome Celtics

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Warriors, hanging by their fingers on the brink of elimination, clash with the Celtics tonight at Boston in a desperate bid for four straight victories and the National Basketball Assn. Eastern Division title.

The Warriors, went into last night's contest trailing 3-0 in the best-of-seven elimination series and pulled the fat from the fire with a 112-97 victory over the Celtics at Convention Hall.

In the Western playoff series, the St. Louis Hawks meet the Detroit Pistons tonight in St. Louis. The Hawks lead the series 3-1.

Leading by only 45-41 at halftime, the Warriors caught fire in the third period, spurting to a 13-point lead that the Celtics never overcame.

3 Newcomers Added To Buffalo Tournament

BUFFALO (AP)—Three newcomers, Dartmouth, Brigham Young and Seton Hall, with host college Canisius, will make up the field for the fifth annual Queen City Invitational Basketball Tournament next December.

The list was announced last night by Canisius Coach Joe Curran.

Two doubleheaders will be played in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium.

The first round will be Dec. 27. The winners will meet Dec. 29, with the first-round losers meeting for third place.

Canisius has won the tournament twice. Xavier (Ohio) and Minnesota are the other winners.

Hart Scores 8th Round TKO Over Tombstone Smith

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Garnett (Sugar) Hart, equipped with his new "wheeling and rolling" maneuver, is ready to take on the best in the welterweight division, says manager Marty Stein.

Stein, jubilant over Hart's eighth-round technical knockout of Charley (Tombstone) Smith at the Arena last night, said his 22-year-old Tiger was about ready for a shot at the winner of the proposed Vince Martinez-Virgil Akins title bout.

Hart, of Philadelphia, is one of the fresh faces in the division and his speed and fast hands make him a crowd pleaser. Now, says Stein, with wheeling and rolling, Hart should move far above his present National Boxing Assn. No. 7 ranking.

Using this tactic in the fourth round of their nationally televised bout, Hart set up Smith for the eventual outcome. Smith, 24, of Los Angeles, had stunned Hart early in the round and was belaboring him in a corner. Then, Hart weaved under a right hand lead and came back with a stunning left hook that shut Smith's right eye, which had already been partly closed.

Pretsch Wins Decision in AAU Tournament

William Pretsch, 125, of Kingston, decisioned Eugene Gilman, 128, of Plattsburgh in the AAU Golden Gloves tourney in Schenectady last night.

Gilman overpowered him in the first round but Pretsch bounced back strong in the second and maneuvered inside with good right hands to build his advantage.

Chisox Reduce Roster to 32

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Three more players today were sent by the Chicago White Sox to their minor league training base in Hollywood, Fla., cutting the roster to 32 players, four above the maximum the club will suit up opening day April 15.

Pitcher Hal Trosky Jr., was optioned to Indianapolis and hurler Stover McIlwain was sent to Davenport, Iowa. Shortstop Don Prohovich, also went to Indianapolis. His fine fielding and improved hitting in camp games marks him a good prospect.

Meanwhile, Don Mueller has been pressed into service in left field since his recent arrival from the San Francisco Giants. He replaces Al Smith, who still is troubled with a bad leg. Smith may not be able to play a full game before the season opens.

Giants Cut Down, Seven Are Pared; Jolly to Wichita

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—San Francisco's Giants pared seven players from the roster yesterday with a few more slated to go prior to next week's break-up of the spring camp.

Veteran pitcher Dave Jolly was sold to Wichita of the American Assn., minor league club of the Milwaukee Braves. He came to the Giants from the Braves after last season.

Assigned to Phoenix, the Giants' Pacific Coast League team, were pitcher Ralph Vold and outfielder Felip Alou. Sent to the Giants' minor league establishment at Sanford, Fla., for further assignment were pitchers Tom Bowers, Ernie Broglio and Dom Zanni and catcher Roger McCardell. All had been brought to camp from San Francisco's minor league affiliates this spring.

Half Million Quit Jobs in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's spring labor offensive for higher wages reached a peak today with about half a million workers off their jobs. Most of the walkouts were for 24 hours or less, but more were promised if wage agreements aren't reached.

Those out included employes of private bus and railway companies, miners, longshoremen, government workers and synthetic chemical unions.

An estimated 11 million commuters in and around the major cities were stranded, but by late afternoon 15 of the 55 struck companies had reached agreement with the unions.

Lawyer Advised To Present Data On Arrest Quota

ALBANY (AP)—Do state troopers have a quota of arrests? A Little Falls lawyer, pressing for a state inquiry, has been told to present any evidence to his county district attorney.

Gov. Harriman's office suggested yesterday that if George Fiesinger had "any information on specific cases he should bring them to the attention of the Herkimer County district attorney.

McGarvey Denies Charge

Fiesinger had sent two letters to Jonathan Bingham, Harriman's secretary.

The second letter was received this week after Bingham wrote Fiesinger that he had discussed the "quota" question with State Police Superintendent Francis McGarvey.

"The superintendent informs me that complaints similar to yours crop up from time to time," Bingham said in reply to Fiesinger's first letter.

"He has assured me there exists no order, written or verbal, direct or indirect, that any member of the division reach any quota of arrests."

Holds to Quota Claim

Fiesinger countered by saying that to question the head of a department about whether everything was proper in his department "is no investigation."

Fiesinger then renewed his demand for a probe and said:

"I state that in some areas there is a quota; that troopers take motorists to their favorite judges; that troopers act as far more than witnesses in the cases; that, in at least one case, a justice of the peace rides with the troopers."

Ex-Paper Official Dies

LIVERPOOL, N. S. (AP)—LeRoy Shipman, retired assistant sales manager of the Mersey Paper Co., died at his home here yesterday. He was 77.

Born in Winooski, Vt., Shipman began his career in the pulp and paper industry in 1907. He retired two years ago.

French Apples

France boasts more apple trees than the United States, yet its territory is only slightly larger than the northeastern part of the United States.

State Keeps Freeze On Bank Holdings

ALBANY (AP)—A state freeze on formation of bank-holding companies will be continued for a second year, under terms of legislation Gov. Harriman requested and received.

The bill received final legislative approval from the Assembly yesterday after word from the governor that he would call a special session if the freeze were not continued. It was due to expire May 1.

Police Board Meets Today

Study May Bring About City Hall Change Soon

Changes at police headquarters and adjacent quarters could come in the near future as a result of studies now under way, it was indicated today.

All space on the city hall's ground floor, which now houses police headquarters is now being surveyed by Lt. Kenneth E. Weidenborner, of the state police, who has been assigned to assist in revamping the department, Mayor Edwin F. Radel said today.

The survey is aimed at determining which space can be put to best advantage, the mayor said.

Up for Discussion Today

The space problem, and others listed by Mayor Radel earlier in the week were due for discussion at a meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners slated for 3 p. m. today.

Mayor Radel was uncertain as to whether the board would discuss appointment of a new police chief, which is due within the next few weeks, but when asked the question this afternoon, said, "We might."

Asked today whether a suggestion that women be used to check on parking meter violations has been given any recent consideration, Mayor Radel indicated that it was a proposal "put out for discussion," but nothing further has resulted because of "too many more complex things to worry about."

It is noted, however, that a past department policy has been to use men for all police work wherever possible, because those who serve as special officers, or men assigned to temporary duties can be used for a variety of police work when they are needed.

Can Shift Duty

Women are now used on some school-crossing duty, but in instances where men are doing the same type work, they could be used for other duty, if and when urgent occasions arise.

Often men who take part-time police work are retired or semi-retired, and receive pensions.

Among proposals made by Mayor Radel in a March 24 letter to members of the police board, and which are due to discussion at today's meeting, were proposed improvement of the police blotter system, a change in the summons procedure for traffic violations, and the clearing out of stored materials to make more space available for police work.

Some Proposals

In line with his proposal on saving space, the mayor also suggested that quarters, other than space now used at police headquarters, be found for "storage, repairs and every-day activities of the parking meter department.

He also proposed coinciding the duty schedules of patrolmen and administrative officers.

The mayor said: "I believe that positive action by your board, at the coming meeting, will make it possible that any action you may take on these matters can be put in force on the first day of April."

Lt. Weidenborner was invited to attend today's board meeting.

MRS. CHARLOTTE A. PECK

CP Director to Receive News Guild Woman of Year Award

A Kingston woman who has served as director of the Cerebral Palsy Center, 400 Broadway, for the past seven years today was named recipient of the 1958 Woman of the Year Award presented by the Kingston Newspaper Guild.

Mrs. Charlotte A. Peck will receive the award at the annual Page One formal dinner-dance scheduled Saturday, May 3 at the Governor Clinton Hotel, it was announced by Charles J. Tiano, Guild president.

Native of Kyserike

Born in Kyserike, daughter of the late Lemuel W. and Cora E. Atkins, whose Dutch and British ancestors were among the first Revolutionary settlers in the Rondout Valley, Mrs. Peck was cited for her indefatigible efforts in behalf of the local CP Center over a period of years.

"Mrs. Peck joins a distinguished list of Kingston women who have been recognized for their warm-hearted devotion to their particular fields," Tiano said.

Previous recipients of the award were Miss Agnes Scott Smith of the Kingston High School faculty and Miss Katherine M. Murphy, former executive secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Mrs. Peck is a niece of the late Dr. and Mrs. Charles Oliver Sahler who for many years operated the Sahler Sanitarium later sold to the city for the site of the present George Washington School.

A graduate of Kingston High School and Russell Sage College, Mrs. Peck took special courses at Columbia University and the College of Puget Sound (Wash.) Her particular devotion to the handicapped was first manifested in Tacoma, Wash., where Mrs. Peck served on the staff of the Crippled Children's School, an ountstanding unit operated by the Washington public school system.

Worked in Hospitals

Qualified for this work through previous training as physical therapist at Reconstruction Hospital, Haverstraw and Beth Israel Hospital, New York City, Mrs. Peck returned to this city to aid in the organization of the local CP Center where she served early years as a staff of one.

The staff later was augmented and today includes a full-time staff of five together with a board of consultants.

Mrs. Peck also serves on a state committee of cerebral palsy.

She is an active member of the Old Dutch Church and vice-president of the church council, Wiltwyck Chapter DAR and treasurer of the chapter's evening group, the advisory board of the Association for Help of Retarded Children, the board of the Gateway Association (adult handicapped) and the Ulster County Historical Society and YWCA.

Helped With War Canteen

During World War II, while living in New England, Mrs. Peck helped to organize the Red Cross canteen in Waltham, Mass., and was active in the New England Chapter of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Peck's other activities include work with a YWCA youth group and serving as a den mother of a Cub Pack, Boy Scouts.

Her son, Ted, attended Kingston schools and is now a senior at Trinity-Pawling Preparatory School.

Mrs. Peck's service as director of the CP Center has won wide recognition. Her humility, zeal and untiring efforts in behalf of the center have endeared her to the hundreds of youngsters who daily receive treatment at the center.

Downtown Post Office Moves To 44 Broadway on April 15

Facilities of the branch, now housed at 3 West Strand, will be moved to the new quarters by April 15. The lower Broadway site is owned by Leo Salutsky, of 8997 Springfield Boulevard, Queens Village.

A five-year lease was taken on the new quarters with an option for renewal for two successive three-year periods.

The new quarters will provide the branch office with an additional 300 square feet of floor space. Renovations are under way. They include installation of new lights, painting and other detailed improvements.

The new office will have all new equipment including partitions and postal windows. The building is on the north side of Broadway in the vicinity of Abeel street.

The downtown branch has occupied its present quarters in the ground floor of the former Mansion House building for more than 30 years.

Matter of FACT

The music to "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," is the same as the British anthem, "God Save the Queen." Samuel Francis Smith, of the United States, was so impressed by the rhythm of this music that in 1832 he wrote new words for his countrymen. Others, including the Swiss and the Danes, also sing their anthem to the same tune.
